STATE ACCIDENTS ARE 20.8 PER CENT BELOW '38 MARK

Only Four Report Better Safety Records Than Georgia for First Five Months of Present Year.

Georgia is placed in the top flight of states achieving the greatest reductions in automobile deaths this year, in a comprehensive survey made public last night, covering the nation.

Its figure of 20.8 per cent fewer accidents in 1939, in point of lives lost and injuries recorded, was exceeded by but four states—Utah with 31 per cent, Wyoming with 30 per cent, Pennsylvania with 29 per cent and Minnesota with 21 per cent.

The findings, determined by a survey and published in the current issue of the National Safety Council Public Safety magazine, cover the first five months.

Estimate 45 Killed.

June's estimated figures are 45 killed, 1,575 injured and money losses of $2,025,000 as compared with 65 killed, 2,275 injured and money losses of $2,925,000 in 1937.

The Georgia record shows that 69 lives have been figuratively saved during the first five months of the year, since there were 337 killed during the same period last year and only 268 this year.

Commissioner of Public Safety Lon Sullivan said last night the department "hopes to be able to enlist the co-operation of every newspaper, radio station and civic leader in the state in a four-month crusade starting in September which will result in the 'saving' of over 200 lives this year."

Last year's result was 121 less killed and 4,235 fewer injured than during 1937.

NEW SAFETY MARK; 44 'DEATHLESS' DAYS

Atlanta has established a new all-time safe driving record with a period of 44 consecutive days without a fatal traffic accident in the city limits, Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic division of the police department, reported yesterday.

This compares with a 43-day period in 1934 and a 34-day period last year, he said. The city's most recent traffic fatality was an auto-bus collision at Stewart and University avenues May 27 in which four negroes were killed.

The total traffic deaths this year is 19 as compared with 28 for the same period of 1938.

tal accidents, including hospital bills, doctor bills, money losses for the injured, maintenance for the crippled, funeral expenses, etc., reveal that the saving in human life and prevention of injuries last year also resulted in the cash saving to the people of Georgia $5,445,000 by reducing the estimated cost from $42,480,000 to $37,035,000.

So far this year the 268 deaths and approximately 9,380 injuries cost about $12,060,000 as against the cost of the first five months of last year of $15,165,000 which shows a cash saving of $3,105,000.

In 1937 there were 350 lives lost and 12,250 injuries and an approximate cost of $15,750,000 during the same period.

Vinson Urged For Navy Post By Ramspeck

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP)—Representative Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia, proposed to President Roosevelt today that he appoint Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, of the house naval affairs committee, to succeed the late Secretary of the Navy Swanson.

Ramspeck wrote: "For more than 20 years Mr. Vinson has been a member of congress, and during this administration has been chairman of this committee. In my opinion, outside the naval officials themselves, he is perhaps the best informed person in the country upon naval matters. He has been a loyal supporter of you and the Democratic party. He is able and capable, and I believe would reflect much credit upon you."

"Mr. Vinson, having served for many years in the house, is well acquainted with the members of the legislative branch of the government, and his presence at the cabinet table would bring to you information regarding the views of members of the legislative branch, which should be of great value to you."

BETTER GINNING OF COTTON URGED

Group Formed To Promote New Methods, Etc., to Farmers of Georgia.

Representatives of allied cotton interests met here yesterday and drew plans for an educational program to reduce the estimated half-million-dollar loss sustained annually by Georgia cotton farmers because of improper ginning methods.

To be known as the Georgia State-Wide Program for Better Ginned Cotton, a committee was formed to instruct Georgia farmers in proper cotton handling methods and to inform them of the more expensive cost of patronizing cheap, inefficient ginners.

Committee, to send direct information to the farmers, is composed of members of cotton merchandising, manufacturing, ginning and warehousing associations; federal and state agricultural agencies.

Georgia ranks fourth among the states in the amount of cotton that is improperly ginned, it was pointed out. Of the approximately 5,500,000 bales ginned in the state in the last five years, 10.58 per cent was roughly ginned.

E. C. Westbrook, of Athens, cotton and tobacco expert of the University Extension service, was chairman, and J. M. Glover Jr., of Atlanta, secretary of the meeting. Westbrook also was appointed chairman of the permanent committee.

SOAP BOX RAGERS TO VIE AT MADISON AND WEST POINT

Elimination Events Listed in North Georgia Zones; Youngsters Seek Spot in Atlanta Finals.

Two elimination races in the sixth annual North Georgia Soap Box Derby, sponsored by Chevrolet dealers of Georgia and The Constitution, will be staged today as amateur racing enthusiasts of the state point for the North Georgia Championship race to be held July 22 at Derby Downs on Northside drive, Atlanta.

One zone event is scheduled for West Point where entrants from Troup, Harris and Meriwether counties in Georgia, and Chambers, Randolph and Lee counties in Alabama, will compete on the Derby course down Lanett Hill. Approximately 50 youngsters are expected to participate, according to A. M. French, chairman of a special committee from the West Point Lions Club, which is sponsoring the event.

Madison Holds Race.

The second zone race will be staged at Madison, Ga., which town is holding a Soap Box Derby elimination for the first time. The race at Madison is being sponsored by the W. H. Adams Motor Company, Chevrolet dealers, and the Madisonian, and will be run under the supervision of a committee of which Jim Norris is chairman.

Interest in the race is keen, according to reports from Madison, and indications point to a large crowd being on hand when the racers start off this afternoon.

An attractive list of prizes has been donated by Madison merchants.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the race at West Point, which will bring together some of the best drivers in that section of Georgia and Alabama. And more than 2,000 people are expected to witness the event.

Grady Bradshaw, West Point Boy Scout executive will serve as chairman of the committee of judges, while other officials will be W. W. Whorton, W. P. Jackson, J. T. Nichols, Wilton Walters, G. C. Harwell and Rhoton Johnson.

Assisting in staging the race will be the West Point fire department, the West Point police department, the Valley Wrecking

Dog, Locked Inside Auto, Chews Opening in Glass

NORFOLK, Neb., July 10.—(AP)

Hereafter, Mr. and Mrs. Carson W. Hammond are going to think twice before leaving their pet dog locked in their automobile.

The last time they tried it, the dog, an American spaniel, found one window down about five inches, chewed out a piece 10 inches in diameter, crawled out unharmed except for several cuts about the mouth.

PLAN FOR 15-YEAR DEVELOPMENT OF CITY AREA OKAYED

Selection of Planning Authority To Aid FHA in Program To Cost 50 Million Given Approval.

Selection of a planning authority to correlate activities of the Federal Housing Authority with the plans for the 15-year development of the Atlanta metropolitan area which it is estimated will cost as much as $50,000,000, was unanimously approved at a joint meeting at the city hall last night.

Philip Weltner, FHA director here, and Robert L. MacDougall, chairman of the Fulton county planning commission and technical advisor to the Atlanta Housing Authority, made the appeal for "help" on the ground that the interests of the entire metropolitan area should be safeguarded by proper advance planning before any serious mistakes are made.

U. S. To Pay for Survey.

Weltner pointed out that the cost of the survey would be borne by the federal government. Others who are to assist him in making the selection are Scott Candler, representing DeKalb county; Ed Almand, representing the Fulton county commissioners; Robert G. Lose, chairman of the city planning commission; Mayor Hartsfield and Frank H. Neely.

Increasing congestion in the downtown area was cited by MacDougall as one of the problems faced by the Housing Authority in planning any further developments.

"I think we've done all right up to now," Weltner said, "but I personally would like to be sure that as we go along we are not going to do something inconsistent with other developments in this area, such as traffic control and park improvements."

Problem Complicated.

"There is no way of telling how far this housing program is going but which ever way it goes we should be prepared for it. An expenditure of $50,000,000 here in the next 15 years wouldn't surprise me in the least and our problem is becoming increasingly complicated."

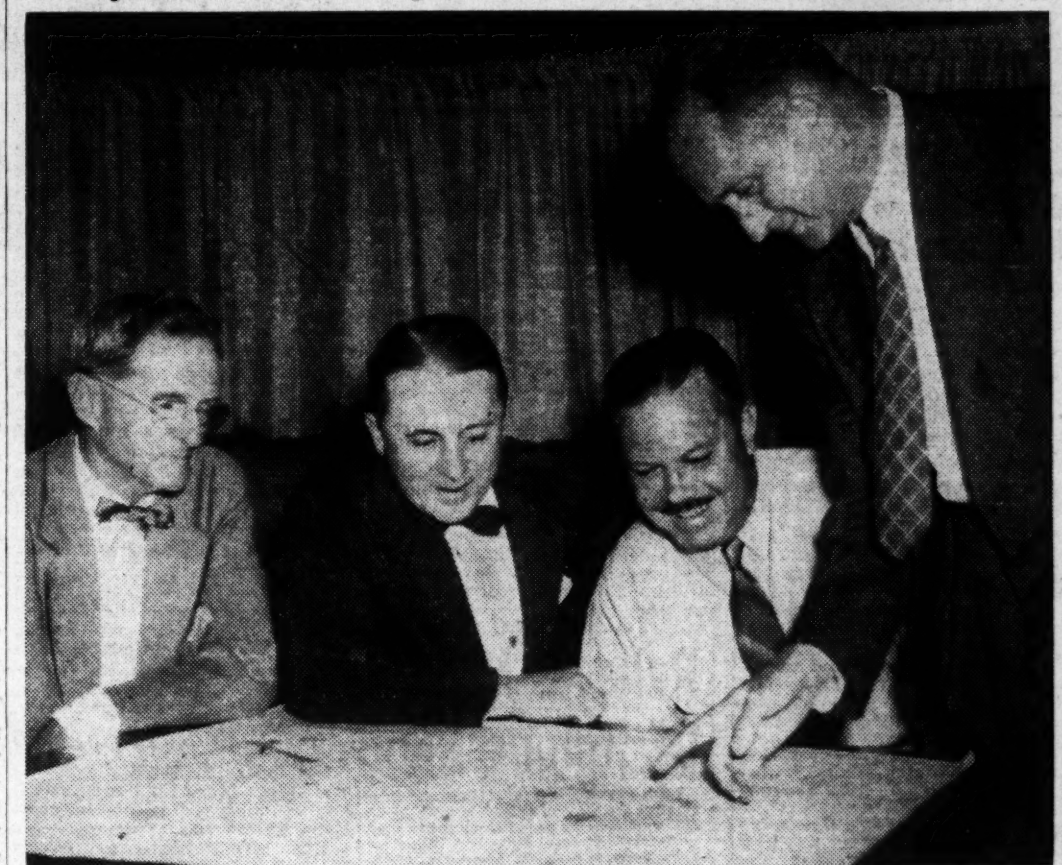

"From the traffic standpoint we have just about reached a saturation point here," MacDougall declared, "and unless we start planning for the future the situation is going to get worse instead of better."

BRITAIN TO BACK POLES ON DANZIG

Chamberlain Warns Hitler That Internal Up-rising Will Mean War.

By The Associated Press.

Great Britain told the world yesterday that she would fight alongside Poland if necessary to keep Germany from taking Danzig.

As casual as it may be reciting the order of business for the coming week, Prime Minister Chamberlain stood up in the house of commons and made it clear indeed that "Danzig" could be a fighting word.

He did not mention Adolf Hitler by name, but it was plain the statement was intended for him. Poland and France approved it in advance.

If Berlin political circles were impressed, they did not show it, saying the statement "changes absolutely nothing."

Warsaw Joyful.

They accused Britain of "encouraging Polish chauvinism" and said that a "reasonable solution" still could be found, but that the "right atmosphere" was not apparent.

In the Free City of Danzig, ardent Nazis were scornful.

But there was joy in Warsaw. Gratified Poles, heavily mobilized for almost four months and feeling a severe nervous and financial strain, expressed belief that Chamberlain's promise should do much toward easing the situation in eastern Europe.

Poland has clung to the belief that she was upholding the peace

RIVERS ASSAILED AS 'PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 IN GEORGIA'

ROME, Ga., July 10.—The definite term, "Public Enemy Number One in Georgia," was applied today to Governor Rivers by Judge Claude H. Porter, of superior court, in scoring what he defined as "a pardoning racket" in Georgia.

"The Governor has turned out more children from public schools and more criminals from prison than Lincoln ever freed from slavery in his humanitarian work as the Great Emancipator," the jurist declared to a grand jury in opening the July term of court.

"It's a crying shame in Georgia today."

He insisted Rivers is "doing more to break down the law, (through granting pardons) contrary to his oath to uphold it, than any hundred enemies of the law."

The judge also declared that the Governor "has never tried to defend himself."

BEATEN POLICEMAN DIES IN WPA FIGHT

Violence on Picket Lines in Minneapolis Strike Led to Officer's Death.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP)—An outburst of violence on WPA picket lines led to the death of a Minneapolis policeman today while legislation to revise the strike-provoking wage regulations of the new relief act was being presented to congress.

A physician attributed the policeman's death to strain on his heart from excitement after a beating by the demonstrators.

The officer was Patrolman Frank Gearty, 40, who was beaten on the head and shoulders, companions said, as he and another officer escorted non-striking WPA workers from a sewing project in Minneapolis. Others in the police detail were pelted with stones, broken glass and other missiles.

Representative Sabath, Democrat, Illinois, chairman of the influential rules committee, introduced the first bill for repeal of the new wage regulations. His measure, which would restore the former requirement that WPA workers receive the prevailing local wage for the type of work on which they are engaged, was followed by similar measures introduced by Representatives Keller, Democrat, Illinois; Bradley, Democrat, Pennsylvania, and O'Connor, Democrat, Montana.

It was apparent, however, that no change would be made in the law without overcoming stubborn opposition, Representative Wood-

It looked mighty black for Don Fitch when a line snapped on his sailboat during a race. His sail came fluttering down.

But while he sweated to repair it a squall came up and capsized the other 14 boats.

Fitch sailed across the line a winner, while lake police and boatmen rescued his rivals.

Says He's Lazy, Unreliable And Gets 4 Job Offers

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 10.—(AP)—L. C. Eisele Jr., had a job today thanks to a "screwball" ad in a newspaper.

"Lazy, unreliable, irresponsible young man wants position. Short hours. Big pay, age 22 years. Married."

Eisele quickly got four offers.

CIO Leader 'Very Able' Red, U. S. Witness Testifies After Alien Denies Charges on Stand.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(AP) A government witness testified at Harry Bridges' deportation hearing today that he had accompanied the west coast CIO leader to Communist meetings but Bridges flatly denied he was a Communist party member.

The denial by the 39-year-old labor leader was followed by testimony of Major Laurence A. Milner, of Oregon, a World War veteran, that the Australian-born longshoremen's union official was "a very able member of the Communist party."

ORDER TO DIVIDE AUTHORITY AMONG BOARD MEMBERS

Administration Under New Setup Expected To Remain in Hands of Governor; Plan Cited.

By L. A. FARRELL.

The State Highway Department is preparing for a three-way departmentalization whereby each of the three board members will have charge of separate and distinct operations under an executive order expected in a day or two from Governor Rivers, it was learned yesterday.

Out-and-out partitioning of highway authority was provided in a resolution of the board itself at a meeting which Chairman W. L. Miller did not attend, but it is understood that this line of action has been abandoned because the meeting was not called by the chairman as provided by law.

New Setup Outlined.

Under the new setup the divided authority would be as follows:

Chairman Miller will have charge of 100 per cent federal aid projects and "public relations" of the department.

Commissioner Jim L. Gillis will have charge of state aid projects, maintenance of both federal and state aid roads and personnel.

Commissioner Herman H. Watson will have charge of the six highway convict camps, including the new No. 3 camp at Dallas, where the state's most dangerous prisoners are held, and all projects which include WPA participation.

Rivers To Remain in Charge.

Administration of the department which has been in the hands of the Governor since he launched operation of the highway setup under the executive order system is expected to remain with the chief executive.

It was learned that a board resolution setting out the departmentalization program was "adopted" by Commissioners Gillis and Watson, sitting as a board last Thursday but that the action has not been written up on the minutes of the board because upon his return from a brief vacation Miller pointed out to his fellow commissioners that he had not called the meeting at which the action was taken.

Under the law the chairman must call and adjourn all board meetings and no meeting may be held of the other two members of the board unless either of them has first called upon the chairman to call a meeting and he has refused the request. No call was

U. S., German Developments 'Parallel,' Lawyers Are Told

U. S. Attorney Seeks Anti-Trust Policy To Maintain Free Economy.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(AP) A "startling parallel" between developments in the United States and Germany was drawn for the American Bar Association today, coincident with support and condemnation of the United States supreme court for its decisions in recent years.

Thurman W. Arnold, assistant United States attorney general, asserted "the parallel between the German development of 15 years, and to our own slower pace since 1890, is startling enough to bring home the point that we must enforce an anti-trust policy, or free economy will slip from under us."

Divergent views on constitutional interpretation were presented by Frank J. Hogan, of Washington, D. C., president of the bar, who said the supreme court was "replacing stability with instability," and Robert H. Jackson, United States solicitor general, who said "We are having something of a constitutional renaissance."

The three speakers highlighted the day's program for 3,000 attorneys participating in the 62d annual meeting of the national bar association.

Among resolutions presented to the house of delegates was one asking a "study of the advisability of the immediate abrogation of the parole system throughout the country" in favor of "determinate sentence laws," and a "uniform juvenile delinquency law."

PATROL SENT $100 BY KING AS TOKEN OF APPRECIATION

TRENTON, N. J., July 10.—(AP) Colonel Mark O. Kimberling, New Jersey state police superintendent, received a $100 check today as a gift from King George VI of Great Britain in recognition of assistance given by the state constabulary when the King and Queen visited the state June 10.

The check was drawn on a fund deposited with the United States Treasury by the British ambassador, who said the King in making the gift requested that the money be given to the "benevolent or other similar fund of the state police."

Colonel Kimberling waived general policy in thankfully accepting the offer, but in a message to all troop headquarters he said "this act does not in any way countermand our regular policy with reference to accepting rewards, gratuities, etc."

to Economic Freedom," told the attorneys "open agreements in restraint of trade are everywhere apparent. We are getting into a situation where everyone must belong to an organization of some kind and take orders from someone in order to stay in business."

He described "unreasonable restraint of trade" as "the most conspicuous reasons for high construction costs," and said "a break in building prices" in some cities was expected to result from prosecutions.

"On the success or failure of the principles which anti-trust laws represent depend the form of government in the future," he declared.

Hogan said "recent judicial construction (by the supreme court) has brought under federal control most if not all activities of the nation."

Park Chief Probes Inn Raid

Rivers' Naval Aide, Andrew Smith, 3 Others Named at Pine Mountain on Liquor Charges.

HAMILTON, Ga., July 10.—(AP) Eugene Bothwell, acting director of state parks, came here today to investigate circumstances of a raid on a state-leased tavern yesterday in which four men, including Andrew Smith, naval aide to Governor Rivers and former Savannah hotel man, were arrested.

Smith leases and manages the Pine Mountain concession and also the concession at the state-owned Vogel park in north Georgia.

In Atlanta, Governor Rivers said he instructed Bothwell to make a "thorough, personal investigation and file a report on what he found."

Pending submission of that report, Rivers said he had no other comment.

Sheriff M. D. Hadley prepared to go before the Harris county grand jury with evidence he said involved the four persons arrested on charges of possessing and selling liquor.

Harris county is dry. The tavern is operated in connection with Pine Mountain state park.

Sheriff Hadley said those arrested in the Sunday raid, in addition to Smith, were Tom Jones, resort cashier, and Grady Talley and Roy Stewart, waiters. Smith and Jones posted $500 for their release.

The sheriff said a quantity of whisky was confiscated in the tavern raid. Several other employees, including two women whom the sheriff described as "hostesses," were not arrested.

Reached by telephone at the tavern, a man who said he was Smith, former manager of a hotel at Savannah, asserted: "Politics, I think a political move by some people displeased by the Parks Department, is all there is to this thing."

STATE ADVERTISING COSTS ARE $42,332

Sum Pays for Printing of Amendments Ratified in June 6 Election.

State funds totaling $42,332 went to Georgia newspapers yesterday to pay for advertising constitutional amendments ratified in the June 6 general election.

A bill by Representative J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette county, enacted by the last legislature limited money to be spent for such advertising. It provided the texts of the amendments could be printed in only one newspaper in each of the 10 congressional districts.

A summary of each amendment not exceeding 200 words was given to each official county organ at the regular legal rate. These summaries cost the state $19,712. Arrangements for having them printed were handled by the Georgia Press Association.

The payments of $2,262 for texts authorized by Governor Rivers were listed as follows:

Athens Banner-Herald, Millersville Union-Recorder, Swainsboro Forest-Blade, Bainbridge Post-Searchlight, Crisp County News, Newnan Herald, Journal of Labor, in Atlanta; Bartow Herald, in Cartersville; Lanier County News in Lakeland, and the Tri-County Advertiser in Clarksville.

Checks for the summaries, $19,712, were made out to the Georgia Press Association.

TAX ASSESSMENTS ARE UP $57,193.58

$216,000 Still in Dispute on Intangible Property.

Tax assessments on intangible property in Georgia advanced $57,193.58 this year over 1938, the State Revenue Department reported yesterday.

Approximately $216,000 in 1938 assessments are in dispute, unsettled yet by the courts, and the department said if this amount was deducted from last year, the 1939 gain would be $273,193.58.

The assessments in dispute are those against domesticated corporations and a number of insurance companies holding mortgages on Georgia property.

THIEF RETURNS CAR AFTER 'JOY-RIDE'

Burglar Keeps Cash; Only Borrows Auto From Dr. A. T. Stanford.

A burglar who entered the home of Dr. A. T. Stanford, 1889 Peach Valley road, Sunday night escaped with $51 in cash after "borrowing" the doctor's automobile.

The robbery was discovered yesterday morning when the Stanford maid came to work and found, on the front porch, the keys to the car and the house.

Apparently the burglar, after taking the keys from the house, entered the garage and drove away in the automobile. Then, after a night of "joy-riding," he returned the automobile to its owner, parking it in front of the house and obligingly throwing the keys on the porch.

The car was undamaged, but half a tank of gasoline was missing, according to police reports.

'PEEPING TOM' SEEN AT AIRPORT

Hapeville Police Report Chasing Suspect.

A "Peeping Tom" has been reported seen in action at Candler Field among the cars assembled there about midnight to watch the "merry-go-round" arrival and departure of seven ships in the space of a few minutes.

G. D. Abercrombie, assistant chief of police at Hapeville, and Officer Earl Kemp said yesterday they had received one complaint from the field and discovered a negro man snooping around the parked cars. He escaped after a chase.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

EFFORTS TO GET FOURTH' HOLIDAY BRING SUSPENSION

Two City Sanitary Employees Charged With Political Activity, Insurrection, Being Off Duty

The effort to get a holiday on the Fourth of July for employees of the sanitary department, which was suspended yesterday, was suspended yesterday, when the city hall yesterday suspended the suspension of Paul Gentry and L. T. Aiken for two weeks beginning July 8 and lasting through July 21 on charges of insurrection and political activity, and with staying off the job without the consent or permission of their superiors, according to reports filed with Carl T. Sutherland, personnel director.

At the same time it was learned that the first public trial of a dismissed employee under the new civil service law will be held beginning at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the city hall.

L. L. Thurman, guard at Hilliard street prison, was discharged by H. H. Gibson, superintendent of prisons. Thurman was dismissed on charges of being intoxicated and sleeping on duty.

Another 30-day suspension also was reported to Sutherland—Paul Self, charged with sleeping on duty, complaining about not being promoted and attempting to stir up strife.

Will Hear Appeal. The personnel board will hear Thurman's appeal, with former Mayor Pro Tem Alvin L. Richards representing him. Richards claims Thurman was ill and not drunk.

Under the law, the personnel board has no authority over suspensions, but it can hear cases where employees are given a holiday over the Fourth, Mayor Hartsfield and Councilman John A. White, author of the measure, clashed when the mayor vetoed the measure.

At that time the mayor lashed out at what he said "is a lobby composed of employees who ought to be at work."

RECORD GRASS STRAND, 48 FEET LONG, FOUND. NEW YORK, July 10.—(P)—Discovery of the leviathan of all grasses, a single strand that grew 48 feet along the earth's surface, as announced in Nature, Britain's official science journal.

This strand sent down roots every few inches, and from them grew blades up to three feet tall. Nature says this grass offers a new aid to stopping soil erosion.

The grass was found in East Africa, and is a cousin of Bermuda grass, which grows luxuriantly in the southern United States.

Jury To Decide Today on Probe of County Cars

Whether Machines Are Being Used for Private Benefit and Pleasure Becomes Burning Issue.

By FRANK DRAKE. Is public money being spent to pay for the transportation of county employees on pleasure jaunts, fishing trips and private affairs in Fulton county?

These two questions became burning issues yesterday through Fulton as the grand jury prepared to meet this morning to decide whether or not it will make an investigation of the situation which was brought to light last week when a county-owned car was wrecked and burned near Robert's while bearing county employees to a south Georgia fishing camp for a week-end pleasure trip.

Included in 'Cade. At least three automobiles bought and paid for by Fulton out of tax money were included in the motorcade of Atlantans, many of them county employees, who were guests of Goodloe Yancey, machinery dealer, at the camp near Hawkinsville.

Numerous reports that many county employees habitually use automobiles assigned to them as their own private conveyances after working hours and on Sundays have been made but are unverified.

Grand jurors, who asked that their names not be used, asserted yesterday that these matters will be brought up at the session today and that the jury as a whole will decide what to do about it.

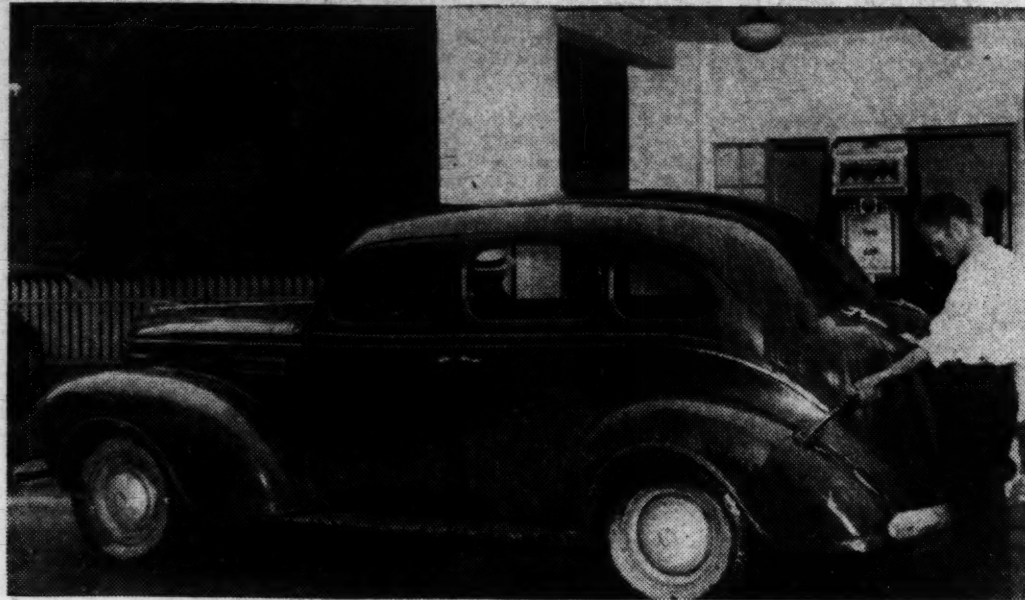

To Outline Work. Thomas C. Law, foreman of the jury, said that plans of the body, empowered to investigate every phase of the county government, will be formulated today.

The tone of remarks made by members of the jury in "off-the-record" conversations with a reporter indicated strongly that a number of the jurors are anxious to "get at the bottom of this thing" with a view of stopping the practice, permanently, especially in view of the county relief situation.

Some of the jurors were acquainted with the fact that half a dozen or more injuries in the past have found evidence of flagrant misuse of county cars and county gasoline and oil. They remembered also that these injuries made strong recommendations and that the county commissioners had passed strict rules and regulations—but that the practice of county employees using cars for their personal trips in and out of the county, had continued.

Given Permission. County employees who took their cars on the Goodloe Yancey party had permission of commissioners to do so, it was said yesterday.

Commissioner J. A. Ragsdale and Ed Almond were along with the crowd and Ragsdale was the one who is credited with rescuing A. A. Clark, public works superintendent, and J. F. Monroe, shop foreman, from death when Clark's county car, driven by County Police Lieutenant Jack

This is how it's done. You drive up to the county's filling station, if you rate a county car, and tell the attendant to fill 'er up. Then you drive on off wherever you're headed. A very simple process—anyone can grasp it at the first try.

Carroll, was wrecked and burned. M. C. Bishop, assistant superintendent of public works, Clark and Ragsdale were the three who took their county cars on the trip, it was said.

Almond in Own Car. Almond was driving his personal car.

Ragsdale issued this formal statement yesterday afternoon: "The Friday afternoon accident in which Mr. Clark and Mr. Monroe were injured is deplored—the most serious part being the personal injury to two of our veteran employees. These two men are under me as chairman of the public works department of Fulton county and I assume responsibility for their trip on this occasion."

"While the trip resulted in a most distressing result, there are precedents for such courtesies," Bishop said yesterday that he had permission to use the auto and that he paid the gasoline and oil expense himself.

He said the permission was not in writing. The commissioners March 6 adopted a rule requiring written permission to go out of the county in a county car.

The county cars are kept 24 hours a day by the employees to whom they are assigned.

Ragsdale said yesterday that the county has no garage in which to store them overnight and that "45 cars were not missing" from Bellwood camp Saturday.

Members of the grand jury who are to decide whether or not they will investigate the county car situation are:

Thomas C. Law, foreman; J. Alex Bartlett, Nelson Crist, secretary; T. E. Johnson, E. A. Wachendorf, T. J. Crawford, E. D. Redd, J. E. Mellett, Phillip W. Breitenbacher, R. C. Turner, S. A. Peacock Sr., W. V. Flowers, M. S. Rankin, J. L. McLendon, R. A. Radford, E. McGonigal, C. F. Wilkerson, C. B. McGaughey, J. G. Kerr, M. G. Roan, W. A. Rhodes, John A. Burgess, J. M. Henson.

A bill re-allocating portions of the budget invalidated by the state courts was rushed through both houses by party votes and sent to Governor Herbert H. Lehman for signature.

Georgia Slave Story Is Planned for Stage

"Aeneas Africanus," touching, yet humorous, story of an ex-slave's loyalty to his white folks—a southern classic which brought world-wide recognition to its author, the late Harry Stillwell Edwards—is to be converted into a musical play in New York for next season by Kurt Weill and Maxwell Anderson.

Word of this development was received in Atlanta yesterday from the Playwright Company, of New York, which plans the presentation as its third effort following immediately upon completion of Anderson's straight play, "Key Largo," now in work.

Bill Robinson, negro tap dancer, known as "Bojangles," on the stage, and the dance mentor of Shirley Temple and Eleanor Powell, is mentioned as the probable recipient of the title role.

Anderson will go to New York in mid-July from Hollywood for a general conclave of the principals of the Playwright Company, and it is expected that many of the details of the production will be completed then.

Backers of the plan are reported to be extremely enthusiastic, seeing in "Aeneas Africanus" a genuinely interpretive study of negro character, rivaling in stage possibilities the tremendously successful "Green Pastures," based on Roark Bradford's "Old Man Adam and His Chillin'."

The story deals with the adventures of the faithful negro, routed from a Georgia plantation by northern invasion, who takes mule, wagon and some of the family's priceless effects over much of the deep south, unflinching in his efforts to locate his former master. It builds to a romantic climax, a most appropriate reunion in which a carefully guarded heirloom occupies the central role.

MRS. D. T. MAUK DIES; RITES TODAY. Prominent Church Worker and Organist Was Native of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. DeSaussure Taylor Mauk, descendant of an outstanding family and for many years organist at West End Presbyterian church, died yesterday at a local hospital. She resided at 57 Lombard way.

Mrs. Mauk was a native of Washington, D. C., but moved as a young girl to Augusta, Ga., where she received her early education. She came later to Atlanta, where she made her home for more than 40 years.

Well known in musical circles, Mrs. Mauk received advanced training at a music school in Washington. At the time of her death she was a member of Westminster Presbyterian church.

She was a direct descendant of Zachary Taylor, early President of the United States. Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Edith M. Powers, and a brother, G. O. Taylor.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill with the Rev. Ferguson Wood officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

M'NUTT BELIEVED IN NEW DEAL CAMP

Roosevelt May Announce Appointment to Security Post Today.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(P)—An authoritative report that Paul V. McNutt has accepted an appointment as head of the new federal security agency developed congressional speculation today that the former Indiana Governor definitely had tied his political destiny to that of the administration.

Friends of McNutt, now high commissioner to the Philippines, already are working actively to make him the Democratic Presidential nominee in 1940. McNutt has said he would not oppose President Roosevelt if the latter should seek a third term.

There were reports that Mr. Roosevelt would announce McNutt's appointment tomorrow. The Indiana told friends on Capitol Hill he already had accepted the job, in which he would have general supervision over the Social Security Board, CCC, National Youth Administration and other government welfare agencies.

The new agency is one of the biggest in the government. The CCC alone has about 30,000 supervisory employees throughout the country, and the Social Security Board about 9,000.

Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, told reporters that acceptance of the position "ties McNutt up directly with the President for the 1940 campaign." McNutt, Johnson added, "is placing his whole political destiny in the President's hands."

From Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, came a statement that the purpose of the appointment was "to build up McNutt for 1940." It was possible, Wheeler asserted, that the administration might have McNutt in mind for a vice presidential candidate.

OHIO STATE MAY OFFER POST. COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 10.—(P)—The board of trustees of Ohio State University was reported tonight to have decided to ask Paul V. McNutt, United States high commissioner to the Philippine Islands and former Governor of Indiana, if he would consider the presidency of the university.

Significant Proposal

Probably the most significant proposal of recent years is that of Chairman Jones, of the house agricultural committee, in which he advocates the use of the cotton subsidy fund to convert the huge surplus into goods sufficiently low priced to move through normal trade channels into the hands of the mass of consumers.

It is the first major reaction against the philosophy of scarcity. It is the first strong movement toward use of subsidy funds to aid the forgotten man of the New Deal—the consumer. It proposes that this country turn from the measures which legislate scarcity and concentrate, rather, upon distributing the bounties of nature to all its people; to those who today are ill-clothed, ill-fed and ill-housed.

More than that, Jones' proposal makes tangible a growing movement seeking to lower the high-cost bottlenecks in the American economy which tend to make it sluggish and prevent full use of the riches of the soil and of manpower. Another manifestation of this trend will be noted in the attack of the justice department on restrictive elements in the building industry.

The new cotton proposal made by the Texan is highly important to the south because it digs at the root of the surplus problem rather than attempting to solve it by slicing off the stem. In effect, it will attack the log-jam of distribution so that a greater volume of cotton goods can be manufactured and sold, working for the farmer, the manufacturer, the retailer and the consumer. It is opposed to the present surplus system in that it shifts from a concentration upon helping the farmer and the processor to the problem of aiding all factors in the economy to attain a balance which will assure increased returns by increased consumption—in contradistinction to the New Deal philosophy of increasing returns by restricting the movement of raw materials into private hands.

It has been proved by the events of the past eight years that the restriction of production eventually can operate only against the farmer and the processor. It is costly and serves only to increase the flow of cash into the hands of the farmer—but its very costliness predicts it cannot long be maintained. If, on the other hand, the farmer can be benefited by a return to normal trade practices, his long-range status then becomes more substantial. At the same time all other elements involved in the long process of conversion and sale of raw materials would benefit and in turn demand still greater production from the farm. The bounties of nature are spread through society into the lower levels. Today, the opposite effect is obtained by restricting the growth and marketing of raw materials.

The Jones plan is not announced in complete detail, and no final judgment, of course, is possible until this has been done. It is heartening, however, in its significance as a springboard from which the nation may find it possible to utilize the goods that are not actually surplus, but are blocked from those who are in greatest need of them.

Tobacco in Georgia

Curbs of smoke rising skyward from thousands of tiny tobacco curing barns gently remind south Georgians that the opening of the tobacco marketing season is close at hand.

The revival of tobacco-growing in this state began in 1917. Then a mere 350,000 pounds was produced for the market. In 1918 the state's first tobacco market was opened at Douglas. In that year the growers produced 3,000,000 pounds. The following year 10 markets were established, which handled more than 10,000,000 pounds of Georgia-grown tobacco. The industry has had its ups and downs since 1917. Largest acreage was planted in 1928 and 1930. Since 1924 the figure has varied from 23,500 acres in 1932 and 115,000 acres in 1928. The low point resulted from the first serious attack of blue mold, a plant disease, and unfavorable weather conditions.

Flue-cured tobacco production in Georgia since 1924 has varied from 12,000,000 pounds in 1932 to 104,000,000 pounds in 1930, the peak year from a production standpoint. Those 104,000,000 pounds were grown on 114,000 acres, for an average yield of 918 pounds an acre.

That was the only year the state's production passed the 100,000,000-pound mark.

From its inauspicious beginning, tobacco growing has become a major enterprise in this state. Now, Georgia's 30,000 growers are preparing to handle what may turn out to be the largest crop in history when the markets open July 25.

A Man Overlooked

It is unfortunate, possibly tragic, that the subject of the neutrality bill now before the senate should have apparently degenerated into a mere squabble over politics. Sponsored by the administration, the amending measure was designed by the best thought and the most completely informed authority, in this country, as the most practical measure possible for the cause of world peace.

It does away with objectionable features of the present miscalled "neutrality" act and makes it possible for the strong voice and determining influence of America to be used for the prevention of another world war. It does not, by any logical means, add to possibilities of this nation being involved, should a war come despite all efforts.

On the contrary, it not only lessens the chances of war in Europe, but it thereby lessens the chances of this nation's involvement. And any neutrality act, no matter what its terms, its faults or its weaknesses, would really have little to do with the decision for war or peace should another holocaust of war sweep the earth. That decision, for America, would rest upon the emotions, the interests and the sympathies of the people. If the people wanted war, there would be war, regardless of anything inscribed upon the laws of the land.

But the forgotten factor, in most of the debate on the neutrality issue, is the indorsement given the proposed measure by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

There is no official in the present government who enjoys the confidence of the people, in his particular sphere, to such an extent as does Secretary Hull. The nation knows he is a man to be trusted and the nation has full confidence in his understanding, as secretary of state, of the involved course of international politics and diplomacy.

The fact that the new neutrality bill comes with the indorsement of Secretary Hull is sufficient, in the eyes of most Americans, to indicate that it is wise and desirable. Whether the individual himself understands the intricacies of world diplomacy or not—and who does?—that individual feels the interests of this country are safe in the hands of Cordell Hull.

Thus the tragedy, when a needed piece of legislation, desired by Secretary Hull, is bitterly fought by men whose only reason for opposition is deep-seated distrust and dislike for the secretary's chief, President Roosevelt.

It seems, at this writing, as though the fate of the world may be hinged to what is, fundamentally, nothing but a political fight against the President.

Based Upon Fraud

Judge Frank C. O'Malley, of the circuit court at St. Louis, recently uttered the judicial opinion "all marriages are based upon fraud." It might be added that, the judge being a married man himself, his judicial findings are backed by matrimonial wisdom.

The judgment, rendered in the case of an application for annulment, was based upon the theory that all persons, prior to marriage, reveal only the best and most charming side of their natures, "put the best foot forward," as the judge expresses it.

And why not? Isn't that the way of Mother Nature, isn't it part of the scheme for the proper replenishment of the earth? Doesn't the peacock preen before its prospective mate and doesn't the flower allure the bee with color and perfume and beauty?

Of course, youth and maiden "put the best foot forward" during the courting period. They could not, in all reason, do otherwise. And, equally in accord with nature, the "window dressing" of engagement and honeymoon days is certain to fade during the succeeding years of matrimonial routine.

But fraud is hardly involved. For marriage involves a contract between two parties and, except in instances so rare as to be negligible, both are equally guilty in this game of lovely deception. Even Mother Nature herself is not guiltless, she is a most important conspirator and accessory before the fact.

But, both being equally guilty, does not one deception offset the other and is not the charge of fraud, therefore, unsupported?

After all, the principals involved are probably well matched in either revelation, in their deceptive loveliness and, perhaps, synthetic charm before marriage and in their workaday companionship afterwards.

Compared to earlier lightning coups, the Danzig affair moves forward at a dilatory pace. Not only are the boys telegraphing their punches, but by night letter.

By a simple operation, a surgeon claims to cure husbands of grouching around the home. And so, alas, do wives, and juries let them.

Hitler attended a variety show and applauded a trained seal that played the saxophone, which must have greatly encouraged Goebbels.

It is strange the pelican never got into the Louisiana political racket, as he has a place to put the stuff.

Editorial of the Day

A NEW GOVERNMENTAL DEVICE

(From The Wichita Beacon.)

Local and state government is supposed in the United States to act as a laboratory to try out new devices of government which, if successful, the whole country might adopt.

The states have not been as resourceful in this regard as they might have been. But New Jersey is now trying something worth watching. It has established a state department of local government.

For the first time, the National Municipal League reports, a state embarks on a program of continuous and comprehensive guidance of the affairs of its cities. The department will seek uniformity of records and accounting, so that cost comparisons between cities can be made. It will give free and competent advice to any city in fiscal or administrative problems. It will center in one responsible agency the administration of all state laws relating to and regulating municipal practices.

If this works, it might give badly needed aid to municipal government, long a weak spot in American public administration.

THE CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

CONVENTIONAL McNUTT WASHINGTON, July 10.—If the Hon. Paul Vories McNutt's recent pompous descent on Washington proved anything, it proved the deadly uniformity of political folkways. Apparently the rule that no politician can tell the plain truth in plain English is never to be broken.

Here was the slick, brash despot of the ruthless Indiana organization whose bagmen have been scouring the country for delegates for more than a year. Here was the man who actually gave himself a candidate's coming-out party, lavishly offering himself to the voters as a rich girl is offered to prospective husbands, among acres of dank hotel hors d'oeuvres. Here was the all-time record-holder for cynical effrontery in seeking the presidency. And yet he would not be persuaded to admit he was a candidate.

The McNutt press conference, held in his hotel suite immediately after his arrival in the capital, was a humdrum affair. With the reporters around him, the great man sat negligently in an armchair in his bedroom. The room seemed crowded, but by the opulent McNutt personality rather than by the press. He is, without a doubt, the handsomest American politician since the unlamented Roscoe Conkling, who was also a man with a devouring ego and the representative of a malodorous machine. His voice is rich and fruity, his laugh hearty. His ability, which is unusual, and his will to dominate, which is passionate and uncontrolled, are obvious at a glance. In fact, the McNutt assets are in the showcase, for all to see and marvel at.

THE OLD, OLD STORY Then came the questions, revealing incredibly that McNutt is just another politician, a mere creature of conditioned reflexes, like Pavlov's dogs whose mouths watered when the dinner bell rang. Ask any politician for his program, and he answers with a resounding but empty generality. Ask McNutt, and he answers, "It has long been our idea in this country that government is primarily for the service of the people. It is my idea also." Ask any politician an embarrassing question, and he answers with emotional gibberish. Ask McNutt, embarrassingly, what he will do if the President is a candidate for a third term, and he answers, "Loyalty has always been toward the top in my category," which is purer gibberish than usual.

The routine goes on, almost automatically. Everyone knows that McNutt is in touch with the Philippine question, and has come to Washington to strut his candidatorial stuff against the backdrop of the Roosevelt administration. Everyone knows that Jim Farley hates him. Everyone knows that his purpose in returning to this country is to push his presidential campaign in person. Yet he has come home because he "must make some provision for his family." He is not resigning his Philippine post at once, but "has brought back everything he owns this time (and then the homey touch), including his dog." He is only in Washington to "finish Philippine business," and is going to see "his friend, Jim," with whom, no doubt, he will discuss the nonexistent Filipino convention delegation.

The routine's climax is inevitable. He is asked if he is a candidate for the presidency. He replies, smiling sweetly, "Well, I've never made that statement." Friends have made some efforts on his behalf and with his knowledge. The results have been "very, very pleasing." But that is all.

OBSERVING THE CONVENTIONS To be sure, McNutt's performance of this meaningless charade was not specially creditable to him. The gestures and answers of a presidential candidate are as formal and prescribed as the gestures and answers of a novice in a Tibetan lamasery. The spectacle of McNutt going through the usual routine was only unusual because his grimly pushing political methods contrasted so ludicrously with his polite spoken evasions.

The things that are not funny about the McNutt candidacy were absent, unfortunately, from the press conference chamber. There was no sign of the rascally practical Frank McHale, the McNutt manager, whose rapid rise from a modest practice in Logansport to a vastly profitable state-wide law business has been the wonder of all Indiana beholders. There was no sign of Bowman Elder, McNutt's fellow American Legion politician, nor of Fred Bays, the ex-circus man who is handling the McNutt ballyhoo, nor of Edmund Ball, of the Muncie preserve-jar dynasty whose practice is to keep a representative in each political camp.

There was not a mention of the beer importation permits, by which deserving members of the McNutt organization were helped on the road to fame and fortune. There was not even a whisper of the famous 2 per cent clubs, cynically authorized by a special McNutt statute, by which all Indiana jobholders pay tribute to an unadvised war chest.

These people and devices have their uses. They can sometimes take a man wonderfully far, but then, of course, it is a political convention to keep them in the background, and Paul McNutt is no man to flout conventions obeyed by all decent people.

SILHOUETTES

Just 'cos I live
In Kickapoo,
While you reside
In Timbuctoo,
So decreed by gods
Of chance,
Why should we kick
Each other's pants?

It's Timely.

Any Time.

There came into my hands, recently, a telegram dated July 4. It dealt with that subject, patriotic Americanism, to which July 4th is especially dedicated. Yet, after all, there is no reason why an Independence Day message should not be just as valuable on any day of the year.

The telegram was sent by Quimby Melton, of Griffin, editor and publisher of the Griffin News, to W. T. Forbes, director of the Athens "Y" camp for boys, in the mountains of north Georgia. Its special significance is because of the emphasis it places upon splendid institutions as a properly conducted summer camp, upon the influence such a place may have upon the future lives of the boys or girls fortunate enough to go to one.

"In this day and time," reads the telegram, "when so many forces are seeking to mislead the youth of our land in an effort to enlist them in the ranks of foreign 'isms,' and are trying to plant seeds of discontent in their hearts and minds with the ultimate view of overthrowing American democracy, I salute a boy's camp, Athens 'Y,' that is teaching its boys to love and respect American principles."

"I would that every young man in America could attend Athens 'Y' camp and catch an inspiration of what it means to hold fast to that which is good and sacred and to abhor evil. Your camp is one of the bulwarks of freedom, equality, justice and democracy. May your work continue for many years."

Amen, and amen.

Another

Viewpoint.

In regard to that "strike" in the ranks of WPA, it seems that out of the total roster of WPA workers, only about 100,000 are involved in the trouble. The remaining 80 or 90 per cent are thankful that the American people have approved government action to provide jobs for folks who are prevented, either by age or through the scarcity of private employment, from earning their living.

According to a correspondent who properly signs his name, but whose wish that his letter not be published is respected, the "strike" consists of skilled mechanics who object to hours of work that reduces their hourly pay level below that of the unions, in their particular fields of labor.

Thus the longer hours will not reduce their incomes at all, it simply means they will have to work longer for their present wages—thus reducing the average pay per hour.

Wonder how many hours they have had to work in the past, when a mere 130 hours per month brings this fantastic "strike" into being?

It is, of course, from among this group that have come the incidents which have cast such a black eye on the WPA. Some of them have worked the required few hours a month to draw their WPA wages, and have then had sufficient time left to fill other jobs, under other names.

That

Sacred Cow.

Of course, the trouble arises from the organized labor fear of any lower pay, per hour, than is established by the union. The old sacred cow of more money per hour, regardless of how many fewer hours a man works, is brought out.

That, again, of course, is the great weakness of union wage scales. They say to every man that he must not work more than a given number of hours every day, making no provision for that fine American type that only asks to be allowed to work as long as he pleases and make as much money as he desires. The man who takes pride in his ability to work right along, regardless of hour limitations.

(Don't you know folks who boast about the time they put in 36 hours steady work, during that week-end emergency? How do you suppose it needs be, yourself? If you haven't, you've missed one source of quite respectable boasting excuse.)

We live in an age of regulations. Whether we live in democratic or totalitarian countries, there are ever new and more laws which say "thou shalt not" do this, that or the other thing. But it is painful to the American taxpayer to find that his government can only work fellows on the WPA for, say, 60 hours a month, because some union says so.

We're sorry for the really needy, and for the sincerely appreciative, folks on WPA who are there through no fault of their own and not because they want to be.

But these others, supposedly facing starvation save for the WPA rescue job, who have had such easy jobs and now want to quit those in preference to working five hours a day for their pay, they don't excite much sympathy or help the administration of "work relief" to any degree.

THE CAPITAL PARADE FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

MATERIAL NEW YORK.—In a shrill cry for Mockery of alarm at the proposal to abolish the income tax exemption of public securities, Mayor LaGuardia, speaking this time as a businessman of large affairs, protested that this change would disrupt the whole financial arrangement of many cities, increase interest rate and destroy the credit of some municipalities. There is much in what he says on this subject, but there is material for mockery in the fact that a New Deal mayor here voiced the identical complaint that businessmen have offered against measures which have enjoyed his honor's enthusiastic approval.

The complaint of business has been that increased tax rates, social security, the wage and hours law and the increase in operating costs imposed by unions under the Wagner act have, in effect, changed the rules of the game and in many cases disrupted it, fact, grievously impaired, their financial arrangements. The metaphor used to describe their problem held that the government started out dealing straight poker but decided the dealers would on changing its own hand and discovering four two-spots there.

Harsh and Cynical As in the case of the municipalities whose arrangements are now threatened with embarrassment, business firms had undertaken binding financial obligations. There were commitments for interest and the retirement of borrowings all written down on paper and subject to no excuse or kindness of heart. Other responsibilities had been taken into consideration and balanced in the formulation of plans extending far into the future. When such plans are suddenly thrown entirely out of plumb by federal and state enactments and union demands enforced by government blackback, neither Mr. LaGuardia nor any other aggressive kiver-to-never Dealer expressed any sympathy for the problems of business firms which employ help and pay wages, and the uniform answer to business protests was a harsh and cynical, "throw the bum out; he is breaking my heart."

The financing and operating plans of business firms have been jangled by tax increases amounting to 600 or 1,000 per cent, counting state as well as federal afterthoughts announced after the cards were dealt, and while it is impossible to strike any figure, it is true, nevertheless, that labor budgets have been forced far out of time. All this is entirely aside from bookkeeping and accounting costs and the expense of extra legal services.

The mayor of New York has not publicly applied his own predicament to private business, but it is plain that if he were a businessman himself he long ago would have joined in the squawk which he and his socio-political-economic kin have described as the selfish cry of the Tories.

They Called Sure, the repeal of 'Em Names of the artificial exemption for the income tax city business would compel the city of New York, which is its business firm just now, to pay higher rates of interest. And, of course, as he says, there isn't a mayor in the country who hasn't cause for worry. But when businessmen royalists, and the fact that they couldn't keep on paying beyond their powers to earn or the hock-shop value of their properties was acclaimed as proof that American capitalism was a flop, the joyous contention of many New Dealers and of a political minority, for which Mr. LaGuardia has expressed gentle solicitude, namely, the Communists.

The mayor's threat to retaliate and levy a make up some of the increase in the cost of hiring money by taxing government real estate in New York is not a new idea, but merely an extension of an old one. For the states, individually, are even now taxing capital gains by various subterfuges and if they should start taxing the national government as the sum of them all that would involve no new principle.

Up to now Mr. LaGuardia's attitude toward innovations which change the rules of business has been that of a sedentary sport in a ring-side seat yelling "Murder him. Gus. He can't take it!" He didn't know those punches hurt until he got up in there and caught a couple.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

A DEAL IN MELONS In the mail yesterday was a copy of Moultrie's The South Georgian, the excellent newspaper of that city. An article, specially marked, was one of the lead stories on page one. It ought to be interesting to those who buy and to those who sell, dealing as it does with melons, one of Georgia's chief products. The vendors of the melons got three times as much for their melons as normally would have been received. The article, which tells the story, read:

"The Future Farmers of America and the Vocational Farmers sold a carload of Cuban Queens recently directly to one of the major grocery chains. The car was shipped to the company store at Pittsburgh.

"This car was shipped to the company store at Pittsburgh, bringing $275, or 27 cents per melon, after loading expenses were deducted. When the car was shipped the boys had 70 melons too many. These extra melons were sold to a local watermelon dealer and when the returns were received it was found that the extra 70 melons brought only 7.8 cents each.

"On the same day that the FFA and AVF shipped their car of melons, buyers in Moultrie were offering only 8 cents each for the same kind and size and 11 cents for those slightly larger. The FFA melons averaged 25 pounds.

"The FFA boys and the AVF believe that they have hit upon the right idea to dispose of perishable farm produce, that is, selling direct to the retailer. The fact that their car of melons brought practically three and a half times as much as the same kind of melons sold under the old system convinces them that the producer can get more of the consumer dollar than has been customary in the past. At any rate, the boys are enthusiastic over their initial trial of a new marketing method and are preparing to sell other produce direct to the retailer."

That's the story. And of course they are enthusiastic.

OF COURSE THEY'RE ENTHUSIASTIC Having received 27 from retailers at Pittsburgh while buyers in their own city were offering 8 and 11 cents, there is no reason why they should not be enthusiastic.

The boys were planning something of this sort some months ago. It was to be an experiment. You may be sure that there will follow more of the same, not only in melons but in other food-stuff.

This was but a small shipment and yet an important one. In the first place it was a co-operative movement. Not one of the growers who joined together had large lots of melons. Had they each taken their relatively small lot of melons to the market in an independent effort, they would have had to take the prevailing price. Instead they pooled their melons and made up a car lot. They therefore could ship as well as one of the major growers. They could, by pooling their melons, intelligence and effort, find out their markets and do the job they did.

The job would have been entirely impossible had they acted independently, as do 95 per cent of Georgia's farmers.

THE SMALL FARMER There are many panaceas offered by many of political persuasion. No panacea is needed. Education plus the organization of the small farmer into co-operative enterprise will do the job—or at least begin doing it.

The co-operative enterprises ought to be small community affairs and not, by any means, county-wide or state-wide. That has been the trouble in the past.

The high school students and the adults who joined together at Moultrie offer the ideal lesson. They began with one car. Next year they can ship three or four cars of melons and dispose of other products. They will learn how to find the markets. They will learn how to guarantee their products.

They went to the retailer. They got more of the consumer's dollar than anyone else selling melons. Co-operatives grow only where there is a need and where there is intelligent planning. Is it significant that high school boys, with the aid of vocational graduates, did this job?

When Spoiled Kids Are Given Charge Accounts, They Buy Till Something Stops Them

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

In the life of the average family, there comes a show-down time when even the most selfish and thoughtless can realize that the picnic is over. The family must quit foolish spending and get out of debt or wind up in the gutter.

That time has come to us as a people. It isn't pleasant to think about, and the foolish will contradict it, but the truth of it is easily demonstrated by anybody who knows a little of arithmetic and history.

There are two fatal flaws in democracy—one foreseen by Jefferson, and the other not yet apparent in his time but similar to the first.

The flaws are in human nature. We enjoy pleasure more than duty; we borrow cheerfully, or as cheerfully buy on credit, but we resent having to pay. In short we shut our eyes to the grim, hard realities of life and evade or postpone them if we can.

Because of this trait, the majority of us cannot be trusted with freedom. Once we understand the power of the ballot, it is only a matter of time until we destroy our form of government.

We are reluctant to believe such a disaster possible, yet our own history and that of other lands proves it almost inevitable.

Experience has shown there is no limit to our appetite for "free" government hand-outs. It isn't a newly developed appetite. The Fathers, the pioneer settlers and the railroads grabbed free lands. Every state, county, school district and crossroads bonded itself for improvements—plus graft. The national government has built up a mountain of debt to provide gifts and doles, and every congress piles it higher.

There are warnings and complaints, but even those who bewail our folly reach out eager hands to get their share. It is fun to receive.

And we shall continue to receive, for we have learned how to frighten public servants. If they refuse to loot the treasury for us, we shall vote them out of office.

But it isn't fun to pay, and therefore we refuse to do it. We resent taxes. It was resentment of taxes that caused the Revolution and made us a nation.

We will not voluntarily tax ourselves to pay what we owe. The people of Europe have overthrown governments that threatened to tax them to pay war debts. And our own people, when given opportunity, have voted to repudiate their state bonds rather than tax themselves to be honest.

That is the story, now fast approaching a climax. Free people won't quit voting to give themselves hand-outs, and they won't vote to tax themselves to pay the bill.

When the people fail, a dictator appears—a government of autocratic powers that can force them to pay. Folly invites a penalty, and gets it.

There is a way out. We could grow

FULTON'S DEALS IN REAL ESTATE GAIN $10,000,000

Transactions, Projects
for 1st 6 Months of 1939
Near $38,500,000; Many Mortgages Are Cancelled

Figures gathered from statistics filed at the Fulton county courthouse and from compilations furnished by the F. W. Dodge Corporation show a gain of $10,000,000 in residential and business property sales, mortgage and loan deals, building contract awards and building permits, and a partial report of business leases in the Atlanta area during the first six months of this year over the same period last year.

The figures show that in real estate, local transactions and building projects the total involved for the first six months was approximately $38,500,000 as against $28,000,000 for the first six months of last year.

There being no official record of commercial, residential or office leases, these are not included in what appears as a ten million-dollar gain, which, if they were available would run the figures to a much larger sum.

An important and significant angle to the realty business in this city and county, and partly in DeKalb county, is the fact that mortgage loans have been cancelled at a much faster pace than for the first six months of 1938. For this year during the first six months there have been 3,675 cancellations, amounting to $19,184,177, compared to 2,335 for the same period last year, involving $8,590,730, or a gain of more than $10,000,000.

In construction work the Dodge report shows $7,724,000 for all types of structures during the first five months of the year, compared with $5,551,000 in the same period last year.

Building Permits Less.

In the city, building permits for six months are 98 less than the same period last year, but the dollar value gain is $666,223. Outside the city limits in Fulton county the record in building is reversed. There were more permits issued but less dollar value. This year so far 666 permits were issued as against 450 last year in the same period, but the amount involved for this year is $2,139,908, as compared with $2,164,871 for the first six months last year.

'Chicken Hawk' Is Model Plane

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 10.—(AP)—"Another hawk," decided poultryman O. G. Waters when a winged intruder swooped down into his chicken yard.

Fowls scurried for cover, and Waters charged the "bird." It refused to move, and then Waters discovered it was a model airplane, landed a mile away from where it had been released in a race.

Joe D. Mitchell, of Waycross, former director of the wild life division, yesterday was named by Governor Rivers to assume charge of the state's development of coastal fisheries in the six Georgia counties bordering on the Atlantic.

In an executive order appointing Mitchell, Governor Rivers cited the recommendation of Charles N. Elliott, acting director of wild life, under whom Mitchell will work in his new connection.

The Governor's order pointed out that Mitchell will be able to aid private industry in the development of oyster beds and other commercial fishing enterprises.

The counties in the new division are Chatham, Glynn, Liberty, Bryan, McIntosh and Camden. Mitchell will be in charge of game and fish law enforcement, in the division as well as the propagation, conservation and protection of oysters, shrimp and shad.

An executive order creating the division said a survey showed production of these types of seafood had declined in the past few years, reaching the condition of "an emergency."

MITCHELL IS NAMED TO FISHERIES POST

Former Wild Life Head To Develop Industry in Coast Counties.

Joe D. Mitchell, of Waycross, former director of the wild life division, yesterday was named by Governor Rivers to assume charge of the state's development of coastal fisheries in the six Georgia counties bordering on the Atlantic.

In an executive order appointing Mitchell, Governor Rivers cited the recommendation of Charles N. Elliott, acting director of wild life, under whom Mitchell will work in his new connection.

The Governor's order pointed out that Mitchell will be able to aid private industry in the development of oyster beds and other commercial fishing enterprises.

The counties in the new division are Chatham, Glynn, Liberty, Bryan, McIntosh and Camden. Mitchell will be in charge of game and fish law enforcement, in the division as well as the propagation, conservation and protection of oysters, shrimp and shad.

An executive order creating the division said a survey showed production of these types of seafood had declined in the past few years, reaching the condition of "an emergency."

Building Permits Less.

In the city, building permits for six months are 98 less than the same period last year, but the dollar value gain is $666,223. Outside the city limits in Fulton county the record in building is reversed. There were more permits issued but less dollar value. This year so far 666 permits were issued as against 450 last year in the same period, but the amount involved for this year is $2,139,908, as compared with $2,164,871 for the first six months last year.

George, of Georgia, that sketches which the senator requested be made for a proposed addition to building No. 3 at the veterans' administration facility, Atlanta, have been prepared and are being forwarded to facility manager Major John M. Slaton for the latter's comment.

Upon the return of those sketches, Director Thripp advised Senator George, "every effort will be made to place the project," which will provide 100 new beds, on the market. Bids will be advertised for just as soon as Washington headquarters of the administration hears from Manager Slaton, Thripp said.

Italy's delegation will be led by Dr. Manfredi Ronchi. Dr. A. Egilitis heads the group from Latvia. Poland will have a strong delegation, with Drs. L. Miksa and A. Speidel as their spokesmen. Norway will have a distinguished group, headed by Dr. A. T. Ohn and Dr. E. H. Wang.

Nephesh will head the group from Russia, and Dr. Everitt Gill will be the spokesman for Yugoslavia.

No, that is not all, nor could I complete the list of outstanding personalities if I took the column every day from now until July 22, but these whom I have named in today's column and yesterday's column will afford some idea of the distribution of outstanding personalities from every portion of the globe.

The fact that we are to have these people from so many nations in our community for a whole week means that we shall have touch with the entire world. The greatest study of a man is man, and here we have the privilege of seeing and listening to people who represent every major group of life the world over. I am very happy that along with these peoples from many lands we shall have some American Indians. It will be most interesting to see the first Americans amid the representatives of the older nations of the earth. All of which means that we shall need to keep our eyes and ears open during the week of the congress, July 22-28.

POLICEMAN KILLED
BY WPA STRIKERS

rum, Democrat, Virginia, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee which handled the relief bill, indicated his opposition and predicted the house would not agree to any change.

Other developments included: William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said that if congress did not revise the law there would be "strikes and strikes."

The Congress of Industrial Organizations, in a statement, renewed its demand for revision.

Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA commissioner, announced that the federal theater project would be liquidated by July 31, although congress had allowed until September 30.

The new wage regulations, prescribed by congress and effective July 1, require a worker to work at least 130 hours a month to earn a "security wage," to be determined by the local cost of living and amounting, at the maximum, to $96 a month.

Work Twice as Long.

The new regulations, which required some workers to work twice as long to earn the same amount of money, resulted in the widespread walkouts on WPA projects last week.

Thousands still remained away from their jobs today, but reports from some areas said there was a back-to-work movement.

Green's threat of "strikes and strikes" if congress did not restore the old rule was made in addressing the convention of the International Longshoremen's Association in New York.

Although he previously had asserted that the AFL would use all its economic strength to force congress to revise the new regulations, his New York address was the first time he had said flatly that this meant use of the strike weapon.

All leaders of AFL unions have been called to a conference here Wednesday on action to compel congress to reconsider the new relief act.

AFL Concerned.

The AFL is particularly concerned by the wage regulations because many of its building trades members are employed on WPA projects. Under the old rule, they received the same hourly wage as similar craftsmen engaged on private building projects.

AFL leaders contend that acceptance of the new wage rates would mean a concerted effort by contractors to beat own wages in private building.

The back-to-work trend among the striking WPA workers apparently was influenced by the rule that those remaining away five days would lose their jobs.

In Cleveland, a majority of the 1,000 who walked out was reported to have returned to work. Lieutenant Colonel Brehon B. Somervell, New York city WPA administrator, said work was proceeding on all projects there, although AFL leaders had asserted 90 per cent would have to close down.

WPA officials in New England said many strikers were back on the job. In Illinois, however

HOSPITAL HEAD ASKS BEER FOR HIS PATIENTS

Nurses may become "barmaids" in the King Edward VIII hospital for natives at Durban, North Australia, if the recommendations of Dr. R. E. Stevenson, the medical superintendent, are accepted.

He has asked the Durban city council to buy kaffir beer for patients suffering from diseases due to deficiency in diet, for he declares that this native beer contains valuable vitamins.

A sympathetic native administration committee has recommended to the council that five gallons of the beer be supplied to the hospital daily.

'Calamity' Is Seen for 250 Small Mills

Memphis Cotton Merchant Tells Andrews Hearing Other Materials Would Come Into Use.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(P)—Adoption of a universal 32 1-2 cent minimum wage for the cotton textile industry would mean "calamity" for 250 small southern mills, L. T. Barringer, Memphis, Tenn., cotton merchant, said today.

Barringer, opposing the proposed minimum, on which Administrator Elmer F. Andrews of the wage-hour division is conducting public hearings, predicted jute, paper, burlap, silk and rayon would replace cotton if labor costs were boosted.

"I am here," he told Andrews, "fighting for the maintenance of the competitive position of cotton goods with other goods."

"We certainly will not be able to retain the industrial uses for cotton if we raise the prices above their competitive levels with paper, rayon, jute and burlap."

Barringer was joined by an Arkansas cotton mill operator who indicated he would close his plant if the minimum were adopted without differentials in favor of the southwest.

James R. Wike, manager of the Magnolia, Ark., mills, told Andrews "we might get by with a 30-cent minimum, but I don't see how we could operate at 32 1-2 cents."

Estimating the proposed minimum would increase labor costs in southern mills $12,750,000 a year over August, 1938, costs, Barringer declared "hasty and ill-considered action on wage increases at this time will destroy the competitive position of the mills, resulting in permanent shutdown and unemployment."

Approximately 140,000 to 150,000 workers would be affected by a wage increase to 32 1-2 cents.

Northern communities, labor and mill operators have appealed for the wage order on the ground it would equalize labor costs between north and south.

But Barringer protested the increase, listing scores of products which had replaced cotton. "If you don't believe me," he told Andrews, "check up in your own kitchen."

He referred to paper napkins and towels and the use of paper for packaging and bags that once were made of cotton.

Barringer said the majority of the textile industry committee "overlooked certain fundamental aspects of the industry."

Unemployment Seen.
"This failure, if accepted, would result in economic disequilibrium and unemployment," he continued.

Proposing a government study of the position of competitive goods that might replace cotton if labor costs were raised, Barringer also appealed for delay in drawn before James M. Landis, dean of Harvard University law school and presiding trial examiner, when the Labor Department's hearing opened at Angel island, immigration station in San Francisco bay.

Landis told defense counsel the government specifically charges Bridges, who came to this country in 1920, with being a member of the Communist Party of America. The complaint accused him of belonging to an organization which "advocates the overthrow by force and violence of the government of the United States."

Bridges questioned. "Those who really prepared the case against Bridges hate Bridges, the CIO and most of all unions," the defense charged in an opening statement, which also accused Raphael P. Bonham, district immigration service director at Seattle, and his assistant, Roy J. Norene, stationed at Portland, Ore., with conspiring to make false charges.

"This false testimony was deliberately prepared outside of the Labor Department, with Bonham and Norene co-operating," the statement added.

Bridges left the side of his 14-year-old daughter, Jacqueline, to take the witness chair for questioning by Thomas Shoemaker, chief deputy U. S. commissioner of immigration, who had announced the government would offer affidavits and testimony to support the contention that Bridges was "a deportable alien within purview of the deportation laws."

No Red, He Says.
The tiny, warm room, barely able to hold the nearly 100 people crowded into it, was quiet and tense as Bridges, natty in gray suit and white-striped blue shirt, took the stand.

"Are you an alien?" Shoemaker asked.

"I am."

"Are you a member of the Communist party?"

"No."

"Or have you been at any time in the past a member of the Communist party?"

"No," Bridges answered.

At the defense table were Miss Carol King, of New York, noted deportation lawyer, and Richard Gladstein and Aubrey Grossman, CIO attorneys, all of whom smiled with Bridges at Milner's testimony.

CITY PLANNING BODY IS GIVEN APPROVAL

traffic control with housing developments and that his department would be glad to co-operate with such a plan.

Robert Lose pointed out the "sub-standard" housing areas in which improvements are contemplated virtually surround the business area which would be "throttled" unless proper comprehensive plans are made.

"Just give me a committee to help decide on what qualifications our expert should have and I'll start looking for him at once," Weltner said.

Step Termed Important.
Frank H. Neely, who was appointed one member of a committee, termed the step "one of the most important in the history of Atlanta."

"Proper advance planning is even more necessary today than ever before," Neely declared. "We must consider not only the needs of the entire metropolitan area but the area within 1,000 miles of the city as well. Traffic and proper traffic controls are major problems and should be given careful and expert study before it is too late."

SECRECY ORDERED IN LOUISIANA PROBE

Murphy Forbids Showing Any Federal Records to State Officials.

BATON ROUGE, La., July 10.—(P)—Mounting investigations into Louisiana affairs today focused on several fronts while Attorney General Frank Murphy in a surprise move bluntly ordered federal records, evidence and testimony withheld from state officials, who had requested it.

Murphy instructed United States District Attorney Rene A. Viosca in New Orleans to let no one see any of the information gathered there by a federal grand jury working primarily on charges against the WPA activities at Louisiana State University and elsewhere.

There was no explanation beyond Murphy's curt message to Attorney General David M. Ellison here that his request for the records was "deemed inadvisable" pending further inquiry.

OPPOSITION SEEN AS CONGRESS GETS D.R. LENDING BILL

Program Calls for Loans Totalling $2,800,000,000 To Be Handled by RFC and Import-Export Bank

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's new lending program, reduced to writing and introduced in congress, aroused such extensive opposition today as to leave the fate of the measure in doubt.

The bill, presented by Senator Markley, Democrat, Kentucky, the Democratic leader, and Chairman Keagall, Democrat, Alabama, of the house banking committee, called for loans totaling $2,800,000,000 through the RFC and the Import-Export Bank, for the purpose of revitalizing business.

Sponsors of the measure said the advances would go for projects which over a period of years would pay for themselves, and thus reimburse the government. The money would be raised through the sale of bonds by the RFC to the public. In that way it was planned that the entire operation be kept apart from the regular budget of the treasury while administration men said the program would not increase the deficit or national debt, their critics displaced this.

House Is Danger Spot. While it was planned that both house and senate committees should start work on the measure this week, the immediate battle-field and danger spot for the bill appeared in the house. There, Republican leaders were privately aiming enough votes to defeat the program in the banking committee.

They based their opposition upon a contention that the house improperly delegates congressional powers to President Roosevelt.

"We've heard a lot of talk, heretofore," said Representative Wolcott, Republican, Michigan, of the committee, "about granting the President dictatorial powers. The powers this bill would grant to the President are so broad as to make former grants of power seem inconsequential."

The total of $2,800,000,000 in the bill did not include a proposed $800,000,000 increase in the borrowing power of the United States Housing Authority. This proposal was advanced in separate legislation.

Purposes Listed. As presented, the bill would set aside the following amounts for the purposes enumerated:

- $350,000,000 for non-federal public works.
- $750,000,000 for self-liquidating express highways.
- $500,000,000 for rolling stock and other equipment to be leased to railroads.
- $400,000,000 for rural electrification loans (in addition to $400,000,000 already appropriated for that purpose).
- $500,000,000 for farm tenancy loans (plus $100,000,000 already appropriated).
- $100,000,000 for loans through the Export-Import Bank.

The lending of these sums would be spread over varying periods of time, running to a maximum of seven years. It was estimated the first year's total would be $670,000,000.

Couch To Urge 10-Cent Round Trip Car Fare

Extension of Shoppers' Bus Lines Also Will Be Advocated in Resolution to City Council.

Extension of the shoppers' bus line with its five-cent fare and a round-trip 10-cent fare on streetcars during certain hours of the day will be advocated by Councilman J. Allen Couch, of the Third ward, before the city council Monday, Couch said yesterday.

The Georgia Power Company will be urged to add additional buses and streetcars to speed up service and provide more frequent schedules.

It was pointed out that the program could not be made effective "overnight," but that it probably would be feasible to inaugurate it within two weeks after passage by council.

Calls for Trial Period. Couch's resolution provides that this plan be tried a sufficient length of time to ascertain whether it will be a profitable operation.

The resolution follows: Whereas, the traveling public of Atlanta is in need of more adequate transportation, and,

Whereas, the Georgia Power Company some time ago was given the privilege of operating a five-cent shoppers' bus, and,

Whereas, the Georgia Power Company has been permitted to substitute buses and trolley buses for streetcars on a number of lines in the city of Atlanta,

Be it resolved by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta as follows:

1. That the Georgia Power Company be and it is hereby requested to reroute the East Point, College Park and Hapeville trolley buses (trackless trolleys) whereby they will travel from West Whitehall street to Park street, out Park street to Lee street and out the old route of the College Park streetcar line.

Additional Cars Asked. 2. That the Georgia Power Company be requested to add additional cars and additional buses to the various lines in Atlanta whereby it will afford more frequent trips of cars and add additional services to the various sections of the city of Atlanta. It is particularly requested that they add service to the Techwood-Luckie line and the Stewart avenue to Sylvan Hills lines in the morning and afternoon rush hours.

3. That the five-cent shoppers' bus, which is now operated by the Georgia Power Company in the business area of the city of Atlanta be extended as follows:

a. Out Ponce de Leon avenue to Sears-Roebuck Company.

b. Marietta to Bankhead to Ashby to Marietta and thence again into Edgewood to Little Five Points.

c. Peachtree to Eleventh street.

d. That a five-cent shoppers' bus be put on running from the West End section as far as Gordon and Lee streets.

e. That a five-cent shoppers' bus be placed in service to the Grant Park section.

f. That the Georgia Power Company be requested to operate these shoppers' buses between the hours of 8 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon and that they leave the outer end of each line not later than 8 o'clock in the morning and not earlier than 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

4. That the Georgia Power Company be requested to try out a five-cent carfare by inaugurating round trips during certain hours of the day for 10 cents, by selling 10-cent round-trip tickets, and that this be put into effect over the whole street railway system continuously between the hours of 9:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m.

of all Europe in insisting on free access to the Baltic sea.

Backs Polish Claim. Repeating Britain's promise to support the Poles if they fought to protect their independence, Chamberlain said:

"The Vistula (river) is Poland's only waterway to the Baltic, and the port at its mouth (Danzig) is therefore of vital strategic and economic importance to her."

That was interpreted generally as Britain's acceptance of Poland's claim that Danzig is vital to her independence.

Obviously trying to discourage Germany from believing she could bring Danzig back to the Reich without a major war, Chamberlain stressed also that Britain was alert for an uprising which might force Poland to take action against the Free City and seem an aggressor. Such an event could not be regarded as a purely local matter, he said.

SUFFRAGE LEADER URGES EQUALITY

Carrie Chapman Catt Says Women Must Continue Fight Against Subjection

KANSAS CITY, July 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, 80-year-old fighter for women's suffrage, urged members of her sex tonight to "keep the banner of women's rights flying until every vestige of the old tradition ordering subjection has been chased from the earth."

The venerable feminist spoke from her home at New Rochelle, N. Y., and her message was carried by radio to the 1,700 delegates here for the biennial convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

Commemorating 100 years—1839-1939—of hard-fought battles to advance the cause of equal rights for women, Mrs. Catt said "the most important thing that happened in that century was the organized woman movement and what it did."

"At the beginning of the century, the legal and social status of women was almost unbelievably restricted."

"Now, in 1939," she related, "no woman is uneducated for the want of schools. Every woman may make a will, control her property and collect her wages. Every woman may have a bank account and carry her own pocketbook. No wage-earning position is legally closed to women."

Answering her own question, "what further is to be done?" Mrs. Catt said:

"Where there is no opportunity, seek it; where there are barriers, break them; where there is opposition, besiege it. But jump at no conclusions; set up no half-considered projects; make no mistakes in your aim."

Upon their completion, the casket was placed upon a gun case drawn by six white horses, and escorted by a detachment of sailors and marines, the President and a committee of the house, was borne to Union station for the train journey to Richmond, Va., and burial services there.

FLEET FIRES SALUTE: OFFICERS MOURNING SAN FRANCISCO, July 10.—(AP) The United States battle fleet anchored in San Francisco bay fired 19-gun salutes at noon today in last tribute to Navy Secretary Claude A. Swanson.

Flags of all vessels remained at half-mast until after the funeral. Officers of the navy and marine corps will wear mourning insignia on arms and sabers for 30 days.

suggested a three-point plan designed to solve the Danzig problem by giving Germany technical authority over the Free City but pledging Poland free use of the Vistula, the port of Danzig and making it a demilitarized zone.

These French sources indicated the plan had Polish approval.

While attention was centered on Danzig, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia issued a joint declaration of "interdependence and neutrality in the best interests of the Balkans."

The statement came as the aftermath of a visit by Premier Kiossevoanov, of Bulgaria, to Berlin where Yugoslavia's regent, Prince Paul, previously had been a state guest. The two conferred today before their joint declaration was issued.

HAVELOCK ELLIS DIES IN 81ST YEAR

Nude Advocate of Prim Victorian Era Was Sex Psychologist.

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—Henry Havelock Ellis, who started battling taboos on sex in the midst of the prim Victorian era, is dead at 80.

Bothered by a throat ailment, which made speech difficult, and a general decline in health, the author, doctor, philosopher and scientist was forced to discontinue his writing two months ago.

He died Saturday night at Hitleham, near Ipswich in Suffolk to which he retired a year ago.

Americans were the first to recognize and publish this Englishman's voluminous works on sex psychology, to which he devoted a life of study. Englishmen banned them as obscene in 1898 and only in recent years were they published here. Englishmen for the most part read his American editions.

He chose to stridge at sex taboos and preach a doctrine of frank discussion in the interests of mental and physical health while teaching in Australia, to which he had journeyed with his sailor father as a youth.

He wrote then that his investigation of most questions usually vexed the mind was "totally opposite to the orthodox one."

He had flowing white hair and whiskers somewhat after the manner of the American poet, Walt Whitman.

A man of many contrasts, he advocated nudism, but did not belong to a colony. Ellis disliked typewriters, refused to dictate and wrote always in longhand. His country study was a room on a turntable so the windows could be swung always toward the sun.

He called himself an "intellectual Aunt Sally" because of the thousands who wrote to him of their troubles and to whom he gave advice. "I have never seen a man shall never see those who write with their troubles," he observed, "but I do my best to answer them all."

made on Miller for the meeting prior to last Thursday. It was learned yesterday, however, that the chairman has informed his fellow commissioners that in the future there will be board meetings at 10 o'clock every Monday morning.

Rivers' Orders Cited. The departmentalization of the highway unit is looked upon by capital observers as another step in the Governor's program of taking over the Highway Department. Several weeks ago the chief executive issued an order prohibiting the advertising of all except 100 per cent federal aid projects without specific approval from his office. Later he issued an order directing that no purchase of supplies or materials costing $25 or more be made without specific authority from his office.

In his orders assuming control of the department, Governor Rivers has cited what he considers an emergency in state finances and various speeches he has indicated that unless the general assembly provides funds to care for the common schools he plans to divert highway money, if any is available, to pay the teachers.

During the negotiations leading up to executive control of the Highway Department, neither Governor Rivers nor Chairman Miller have made any effort to hide and growing breach between them and observers pointed out yesterday that if and when the department is partitioned, the Governor will have, through Gillis and Watson, complete control over all activities of the department except those operated under federal regulations, which will be left in Miller's hands.

'NON-STOP' PLANE HOPS FOR ENGLAND

15-Ton Flying Boat Leaves San Diego After 24-Hour Delay.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 10.—(AP) In less than 30 seconds today, Pilot Russell Rogers lifted a 15-ton flying boat off San Diego harbor waters and headed across the continent on a projected one-stop flight to Felixstowe, England.

Rogers was determined to keep a dinner engagement Wednesday at a London hotel, despite a 24-hour delay in getting away from California.

Rogers and his three crewmen hoped to reach Botwood in 22 hours. The take-off was at 8:23 a. m. (11:23 a. m. Atlanta time).

At 4 p. m. (P.S.T.) the ship radioed it had passed over Dahlart, in the Texas Panhandle, en route toward Wichita, Kas.

At midnight (Atlanta time) no further word had been heard from the plane.

LIE DETECTOR TEST IS GIVEN DOLEZAL

Two Suicide Attempts Made by Suspected Torso Murderer.

CLEVELAND, July 10.—(AP)—Scores of questions were put tonight to Frank Dolezal, confessed slayer of one of Cleveland's 12 "torso murder" victims, in a lie detector test after officials reported they twice kept Dolezal from hanging himself.

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell handed a list of 100 questions to Paul Beck, operator of the polygraph.

Beck questioned Dolezal two hours, then called in O'Donnell, County Detective Harry Brown and Deputy Jack Gillespie.

"I don't know how long the test will take," said O'Donnell, "but we hope it will clear up the question of how Dolezal disposed of the head." He referred to the missing skull of Mrs. Florence Polillo, 42, No. 3 in the torso slayings.

"When we learn to our satisfaction, we will have enough of a case to present to the county prosecutors," added O'Donnell, who announced Friday that Dolezal, 52-year-old bricklayer and butcher, confessed the Polillo slaying.

The "torso murders" started in September, 1935. Seven men and five women comprise the series, and three have been identified. The last bodies were found last August.

Later he issued an order directing that no purchase of supplies or materials costing $25 or more be made without specific authority from his office.

In his orders assuming control of the department, Governor Rivers has cited what he considers an emergency in state finances and various speeches he has indicated that unless the general assembly provides funds to care for the common schools he plans to divert highway money, if any is available, to pay the teachers.

During the negotiations leading up to executive control of the Highway Department, neither Governor Rivers nor Chairman Miller have made any effort to hide and growing breach between them and observers pointed out yesterday that if and when the department is partitioned, the Governor will have, through Gillis and Watson, complete control over all activities of the department except those operated under federal regulations, which will be left in Miller's hands.

man E. English said he had written a letter to A. M. (Phil) Anderson, executive secretary of the state penal board, charging that T. E. (Banjoback) Finney, convicted here in June, 1938, of robbery and sentenced to four years, spent part of last week here and was arrested and confined in the city barracks on disorderly conduct charges during that time.

Warden O. A. King, of the Tallapoosa county stockade at Crawfordville, to which Finney was transferred about two and one-half months ago, said he released the convict Saturday, July 1, on an order from the state penal board to permit him to come to Macon.

LIE DETECTOR TEST IS GIVEN DOLEZAL

TWO SUICIDE ATTEMPTS MADE BY SUSPECTED TORSO MURDERER.

CLEVELAND, July 10.—(AP)—Scores of questions were put tonight to Frank Dolezal, confessed slayer of one of Cleveland's 12 "torso murder" victims, in a lie detector test after officials reported they twice kept Dolezal from hanging himself.

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell handed a list of 100 questions to Paul Beck, operator of the polygraph.

Beck questioned Dolezal two hours, then called in O'Donnell, County Detective Harry Brown and Deputy Jack Gillespie.

"I don't know how long the test will take," said O'Donnell,

YANKS, 5 REDS OFFER PREVIEW OF 'NEXT' SERIES

American League Pitching and Power Holds Big Edge.

By SID FEDER.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP)—Lasting a top-heavy edge both the pitcher's box and at the plate, the American league team ruled a one-sided game tonight to trim the National leaguers in the seventh annual edition of baseball's "dream" game tomorrow at Yankee stadium.

Dominated by members of the pennant favorites—the New York Yankees and the Cincinnati Reds—the hand-picked squads get the annual extravaganza of the diamond under way at 1 p. m. (E. S. T.), before a crowd that is almost sure to hit the 60,000 mark and may catch up with the all-time all-star high of 69,812 posted at Cleveland in 1935.

Charley Ruffing, Cleveland in 1935.

The two managers, squared Joe McCarthy, boss of the world champion New York Yankees, and a nervous, grumpy Abby Hartnett, pilot of the National league pennant-holding Chicago Cubs, announced a pair of lineups today that would give the American league a big edge.

Only surprises of any moment found Red Ruffing, of the Yankees, instead of Boston's belting Jimmy Foxx, on third base for the American leaguers, and Bill Lee, pitching at less than $500 a game for the Cubs this year, one of the three elbowers for the Nationals.

Since the American leaguers, for the first time, go into the all-star tilt boasting a pitching staff as well as a batting edge, Broadway betting commissions tonight couldn't be the National leaguers even with field glasses. The Americans were quoted at 9 to 20 to walk off with their fifth victory in seven all-star meetings.

The senior circuit, while the Nationals were held at a good 8 to 1 price that caused a considerable showing of money for Ford Frick's loop to repeat their 938 upset.

As had been expected, the Yankees and Reds, with six and five men each in their respective lineups, were the big show in the announcements from McCarthy and Hartnett. And, with these two clubs favored to finish on top in their pennant parades, there was every chance Mr. Gus Q. Fan and family would be treated to a special "preview" of next October's World Series tomorrow.

FILLY WINS.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP)—Redlin, a fast-breaking filly owned by W. H. Lipscomb, won the class "C" Millwood handicap at Empire City today so easily it wasn't even interesting, but Ronnie Nash and Don Meade put on a riding duel that supplied the competitive appeal lacking in the featured race.

Col. Allen Happy Over His Smokies On 72d Birthday

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., July 10.—(AP)—Col. Bob Allen, owner of the Knoxville club of the southern association, was 72-years-old today and "happy over the way my club is playing."

Allen brought the franchise here from Mobile in 1932. He broke into baseball as a shortstop with Marion, Ohio, in 1886 and he's been in the game in some capacity ever since. His stay in the Majors included stretches with Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Boston in the National league and Detroit in the old western loop, later the American.

"I'm feeling fine," said Allen as he received the congratulations of fans and friends. "I'm happy over the way my club is playing."

Lookouts Defeated By Pebbles in 13th

Fist Fights Feature Long Battle; Vols Beat Barons Double-Header.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 10.—The Lookouts bowed to the Little Rock Travelers in 13 innings tonight, 5-4, and dropped into a tie with Atlanta for second place, two games behind Memphis.

Fighting broke out first in the 11th when the Travelers' second baseman, Ed Hickey, hit Lookout pitcher, Polli, with a line drive. Polli hit two batters, Boyd and Schalk, and the Travelers took a 5-4 lead.

Polli, who had pitched well, was hit by a line drive from Hickey, who had just come in from the bullpen. Polli was hit in the head and fell to the ground. He was taken to the hospital.

RUSS BOBBITT AND GUERNSEY TAKE DOUBLES

Beat Mako and Parker, 2-6, 6-1 in Kentucky Tourney Finals.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 10.—(AP)—"My Davis cup chances?" Frank Parker rubbed the back of his head pensively with a towel. The water trickled off him and made little puddles on the locker room floor.

"Pretty good, so far," he replied. "The eastern tournaments will have a lot to do with it, of course, but I'm hopeful."

Parker gives credit for his record this year to a "new" forehead, easily apparent in the smashing game he played against Mako.

"It just came to me over the winter," he explained. "I laid off tennis and worked at the Santa Clara race track, and then when I started again this spring, there it was."

Parker's remarkable backhand used to do most of the work.

With Mako and other stars, Parker competes next on clay at Spring Lake, N. J.

Parker and Mako were upset in the championship match of the doubles division by Frank Guernsey, of Orlando, Fla., the national intercollegiate champion from Rice Institute, and Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, Ga. The scores were 2-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Billy Gillespie Wins In N. Y. Clay Court Play.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(AP)—Frank Guernsey Jr., of Orlando, Fla., who recently won the national intercollegiate title for Rice Institute, reached the Seminole Club at Forest Hills after rain had halted the third day's play in the New York state clay court tennis championships and managed to get through to the third round.

Guernsey, the top-seeded player, made a hurried airplane trip from Louisville, Ky., to play. He arrived after officials had announced a postponement, but insisted upon playing. His first-round opponent, Fred Schmitt, of New York, defaulted, and Guernsey raced through a 20-minute match to beat Alvin Silverman, of Brooklyn, 6-1, 6-0.

Guernsey's belated arrival left only two seeded players on the idle list. They are Russell Bobbitt, of Atlanta, No. 3, who arrived with Guernsey, and Martin Buxby, of Miami, No. 5. They will start play tomorrow.

Only one other ranked player, Billy Gillespie, of Atlanta, No. 6, played today. He advanced to the fourth round by beating Bill Pardo, of Salt Lake City, 6-0, 6-3.

Gillespie, the nation's twentieth ranking junior, befuddled his opponent with a soft game and never used his effective heavy-hitting style.

New Dorv Roche Faces Babe Zaharias Tonight

Dorv Roche, the former coal miner, never could have been classed as a powder-puff athlete. He is no sissy in any sense of the word, merely preferring to stick to the rules of his profession, which happens to be wrestling. However, the time has come Roche thinks when he should step out of character a bit.

Therefore, when fans see Dorv against Babe Zaharias at Warren Athletic field tonight, they may not recognize him as the sportsmanlike grappler they have admired and applauded in the past. Dorv insists he cannot stand by and be all but murdered at the hands of Babe Zaharias, and has decided to combat the rowdy Greek at his own underhanded game, a hair pull for a hair pull, a fist for a fist, and an eye gouge for an eye gouge.

This transformation in Roche came about as a result of a recent match here with Zaharias when the Greek concentrated upon Roche's injured knee and almost ruined that member.

Roche is a former prize fighter and fans have had occasion to learn that when aroused, he is 212 pounds of TNT.

Henry Piers, a polished and likeable wrestler, meets Harry Kent, young Minnesotan, in the semi-final.

Powerful Bill Lee, former captain and all-American tackle for Alabama's Crimson Tide, meets Popeye Swensen, a newcomer, in the opening event at 8:30.

Low summer prices will prevail. The card will be staged at Warren arena if it rains.

50 NEGROES JAILED AFTER FATAL FIGHT

CCC Enrollees and Royston Group Wage Battle in Eating Place.

CARNESVILLE, Ga., July 10.—(P)—Fifty negroes were held in the Franklin county jail tonight as the aftermath of a pitched battle between members of a negro CCC camp and a group of negroes at Royston.

One negro was killed by gunshot, and Sheriff T. W. Andrews reported his 17-year-old son, Marvin, was injured slightly when struck in the back of the head with a rock as he lay in quelling the disturbance.

Three Held in Slaying.

The sheriff said 47 members of the CCC camp, located near Royston, were held on charges of disorderly conduct and three Royston negroes were in jail in connection with the fatal shooting of Briscoe Ingram, CCC enrollee from Eatonton.

"About 40 of the negroes told me today they wanted to plead guilty to charges of disorderly conduct," Sheriff Andrews declared. "Solicitor General A. S. Skelton, of Hartwell, will be here tomorrow to aid in disposing of the case."

Knives, sticks and rocks, the sheriff said, were used in the fight, which occurred yesterday at an eating place on the outskirts of Royston. The sheriff's force confiscated 30 to 35 butcher knives and pocket knives.

Andrews said the melee apparently grew out of "bad feeling" existing several weeks between the CCC members and a group of Royston negroes.

The camp of approximately 200 members, he added, was established near Royston about two months ago.

Army headquarters in Atlanta reported an investigation was under way.

CROP INSURANCE FOR COTTON URGED

Agricultural Department's 'Strong Desire' for Step Outlined to House Group

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(P)—The Agriculture Department's "strong desire" that federal crop insurance be extended to cotton was expressed today to the house agriculture committee.

Cecil A. Johnson, assistant manager of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, outlined the department's view and read a letter from Secretary Wallace to Senator Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama.

Wallace said in the letter that insurance against losses from drought and other natural hazards might well be extended to cotton "in view of the many hazards that affect the production of cotton and the large number of farmers who must face these hazards."

WOOD'S OFFICE FIGHT REACHES HIGH COURT

John S. Wood's fight for the office of attorney general reached the state supreme court yesterday when he appealed from a ruling against his claim by Superior Judge Lee B. Wyatt, of LaGrange. Wood contends 3,532 "write-in" votes from the June 6 election entitle him to the office, now held by Ellis Arnall under appointment by Governor Rivers. Arguments in the case are planned for the first week in September.

For seven years and nine months, Birdsell Sweet, son of a Beacon real estate dealer, has been confined in an artificial respirator or "iron lung" which enables him to breathe and survive the ravages of infantile paralysis.

Without the "lung," he would die in a little more than six hours—the longest period he has been able to breathe for himself.

Many Atlantans Book Passage For Summer of European Travel

By Sally Forth.

THE lure of European travel never fails, even with incessant war scares on the horizon. And despite all the sinister signs, Atlantans and Georgians have gone right on making their plans, assembling their travel wardrobes, and securing their passports. One of the largest parties booked for departure this week is that sailing on Thursday aboard the S. S. Statendam.

This group has grand and exciting days ahead, for they will visit France, England, Holland, Italy, Switzerland and Germany. A boat trip down the historic Rhine will feature the visit to Germany, and many motor trips through the English countryside will mark their stay in the British Isles.

The party will sail under the guidance of Dr. H. J. Gaertner, noted traveler and educator who heads Emory University's department of education. Which is a distinct advantage, in case you don't know, because of Dr. Gaertner's thorough first-hand knowledge of the countries they will visit, his unusual insight into the customs, and his familiarity with the cultural and historic background of Europe. In addition, he will give daily lessons both in the languages and the currencies of the foreign lands included in the itinerary.

With Dr. Gaertner will be Mrs. Gaertner and their attractive daughter, Nellie Jane. One of the most interesting members of the party, perhaps, will be eight-year-old Mary Howard, who is all thrilled over the trip she has planned with her aunts, Mrs. Lila Willis and Miss Katherine Davidson. Others in the group are Myrtle Belle Durham, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Bobet, Mrs. Hattie Sue Carroll, Mrs. Ruth Shearer, Emma Gates, Mrs. Annabel Wilmarth, Eunice Lawrence, Mrs. Ella Roundtree, Jewell Bird, Mrs. Linton Williams, Kathleen Hardwick, Louise Holcomb, Lella Gardner, Nell Varner and Sara Lee DeLoach. Pearl Dekle will come from Chicago and Marie Ella Stephens from Thomaston to join the Atlantans. The party will return to the States August 15 on the Statendam.

A GAY house party assembling members of the Tri Delta sorority from Atlanta and other Georgia cities is now in progress at Lakemont. Hostesses at the informal affair are Louise and Katherine McKie, attractive daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKie, who belong to Alpha Rho chapter of the sorority at the University of Georgia. Louise, you know, graduated from the university last month, while her sister, Katherine, resumes her studies in the fall as a member of the sophomore class.

Guests are acquiring becoming "tans" by relaxing on the McKies' colorful sundeck overlooking Lake Rabun. Countless hours speeding about the lake in their hostesses' inboard motorboat provide thrills for the visitors, who also enjoy horseback rides on Lakemont's rustic trails, and frequent swimming.

Mrs. Donald McKie is the group's companionable chaperon, and attending the house party are Rennie Geisler, president of Alpha Rho chapter of the sorority at the university; Helen Clarke, Helen Mergandoller, former president; Alice Klerce, of Columbus; Louise Chandler, of Athens; Toni Summers, of Barnesville, and the hostesses.

Sally hears that Alice will visit Helen Clarke, her former roommate at the university, upon their return from Lakemont, and, of course, the Columbus belle's sojourn here will prove a bright spot on the social calendar.

NEWS from Mrs. DeLos Hill, who is climbing an extensive vacation trip with a visit to the Pacific coast, tells of her many interesting experiences in the magic city of Hollywood.

"I enjoyed so much meeting Mrs. Wilbur Kurtz at Culver City," she writes, "hearing about 'Gone With the Wind' and seeing some of the sets of old Atlanta. They finished the picture July 1, but Mr. and Mrs. Kurtz will stay on for a while."

Mrs. Hill left Atlanta May 15 for Baltimore, where she attended the biennial of the National Federation of Music Clubs. Then she visited the World's Fair in New York and spent some time in Philadelphia and Chicago before going on to Portland, Ore., for that city's famous Rose Festival.

Proceeding down the west coast, the Atlantans visited San Francisco and the Golden Gate Exposition before going to Los Angeles and Pasadena. En route home she will stop at Boulder Dam in Colorado and will see Bryce and Zion canyons, later visiting in Salt Lake City.

Avondale Garden Club Holds Meeting.

Avondale Garden Club met recently in the community clubhouse in Avondale Estates, with Mrs. J. F. Buffington, Mrs. J. L. David, and Mrs. H. M. Van Devender, as hostesses.

The president, Mrs. E. B. Worsham, presided, and received reports of the various committees. Mrs. O. S. Walker, project chairman, reported that work would be recommenced on the club's project within a few days. The project is the beautification of Lake Avondale and the establishment of a bird sanctuary, as a living memorial to the late G. F. Willis.

After the meeting, the members sojourned to the home of Mrs. J. M. Royal, Columbia drive, Decatur, where they visited her gardens.

Reeves' Studio Photo.

Miss Gene Bishop, whose engagement to Donald Sargent is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop, of this city. The marriage will take place the latter part of this month.

Mrs. Therrell To Fete Mrs. Patterson at Tea.

Mrs. James Therrell will be hostess Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at her home on Habersham road honoring her sister, Mrs. Daniel Patterson, of Gainesville, who before her recent marriage was Miss Alexandria Anderson, of Nelson, Ga.

RICH'S, Atlanta, July 11.—(FLASH)—FASHION'S FOIBLES FORECAST FOR FAIR-FARING FEMALES. Ye Early Bird comes through with the up-town low-down.

Savoir faire for a suave sojourn, by train, plane or boat. In Debutante Shop's triple sheer, devastating black frock. Alluring but chaste, with its gardenia fresh touch of white at neck. A double-asterisk effect in its own smart jacket.

You'll bless the jacket after sundown. Without it you'll conform to the New York standard of dark street dress and still have "coolthe," even when the sidewalks of New York are hot enough to fry an egg! The sort of frock that'll travel, sightsee, cocktail or informal dine. The lines are smart... the cut knowing, and you will be filled with desire for it on sight... which can be satisfied for 14.95.

If you've a man to "squire" you in New York (and if you haven't, you'll get one in THIS lovely), you simply must have our white jersey evening frock. Its lines are pure Grecian, it drapes itself about your bust, hips and limbs in a manner which should be viewed with blinders! The final emotional voltage comes in the silly little maribou bolero that slips about its shoulders... the way the whole business slips into your heart, you slip into his arms (dancing, silly!) and it slips into your luggage for 17.95 in the Dress Shop.

Lingerie Shop puts a stop to "Pullman Horror" with the smartest Pullman ensemble we've seen in many a mile of track! Its pajamas and robe, star spangled, navy, man-tailored, and braid trimmed, are smart as a curve on the Dixie Flyer. United or divided, they stand for traveling chic at 5.98 each.

We list below for your traveling comfort, Cosmetic Shop's contributions. A trump in tweed, called "Quick Trick." A tweed case holding in its insides, nail enamel and polish remover and several other gadgets. By Revlon, for the manicure beautiful, en route, at home, or abroad. ## Miss Jeannette Sibley Feted During Visit to Miss Thomas

Among the attractive young visitors in the city is Miss Jeannette Sibley, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sibley, of Wilmington, Del., formerly of Atlanta, who is the guest of Miss Alice Thomas at the Huntington road residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Thomas.

Miss Sibley and Miss Thomas returned the latter part of last week from Lakemont where they were the house party guests of Mrs. Newton Craig. Completing the party were Miss Betty Allen, of Milledgeville, and Miss Rosalind Davis, of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania.

Numerous informal parties have been planned to mark Miss Sibley's visit here. Miss Thomas' aunt, Miss Jessie Muse, will entertain at luncheon in her honor today at Rich's tea room, and tomorrow Miss Daisy Miller will be hostess at luncheon at the East Lake Country Club.

Other parties given since their arrival from Lakemont include a luncheon given on Saturday by Miss Clara Lee Cone, aunt of Miss Sibley, and a swimming party and picnic supper that evening given by Mrs. Eugene Harrington at her country place, Laurelwood. On Sunday evening Miss Thomas was hostess at a buffet supper at her home in compliment to her guest, and yesterday Miss Virginia Boynton entertained at a soft drink party at her home on Peachtree street.

Scales May Be Up Today and Down Tomorrow—Watch the Trend

Don't Take Your Daily Weighing Too Seriously

By Ida Jean Kain.

There is, as most reducers discover, always one place on the bathroom floor where the scales do not register quite so high. You wouldn't think of tampering with the indicator! That wouldn't be honest! But, after all, the scales might be registering too high in that one spot and you feel you are entitled to the benefit of any doubt as to what you weigh.

The moral of that is, don't take your daily weighing too seriously! Almost the first thing some reducers do after getting home from a bridge luncheon or tea is to step on the scales to see if they have gained—as they suspect they have! If the indicator is still where it was that morning, their elation knows no bounds.

But a scale is neither as prompt nor as accurate as a cash register in ringing up gains and losses. Don't be stepping to the scales several times a day to see whether your weight is up or down. The registration of your weight may vary as much as two pounds from one day to the next, irrespective of your actual gain or loss. When the indicator persists on going up or down, however, you have an accurate index to your weight trend.

This is no attempt to deprive you of the pleasure of daily weighing. If you like to weigh every day, by all means do so! But try to weigh at the same time every day and under as nearly as possible the same body conditions. Your clothing may affect the registration by as much as two pounds, so make a point of weighing with the same amount of clothing, or with none at all.

Don't hop on the scales the first thing in the morning for you might weigh heavier. And don't weigh right after taking a long drink of water or a heavy meal. Usually the best time for weighing is between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning.

The object of this close association with the scales is, of course, to get down to what you regard as normal weight. If you have large bones, don't aim too low. It would not only be discouragingly hard for you to bring your weight down to a point that is too low for you, but you would not look or feel well if you succeeded.

With a generous frame, your normal weight may be 10 per cent above the average given for your height. This does not mean the average listed on the so-called standard charts, however, for these lists really are averages, irrespective of build.

You should allow 100, 105 or 110 pounds for your first five feet of height, depending on whether your build is small, medium or large. Then allow five additional pounds for each inch by which your height exceeds five feet. With a very large frame, normal weight may be as high as 10 per cent above these weights for type, and the new "Height-Weight-Structure Chart for Women" lists four different weights for the same height.

If you are considerably above weight that is normal for your height and build, you should be able to lose from one to three pounds each week during the summer. Send for the "Summer Slimming Menu" and watch the scales drop!

Good Tools Essential to Gardener

By Elizabeth MacRae Boykin.

There's no point in fooling with bad tools, or the wrong tools—no matter what kind of work you do. Carpenters, cooks, gardeners, sculptors, or anyone else, all demand fine instruments for fine results. Our personal passion is gardening, so it's the implements of the soil that we're sentimental about. Such as:

A Tool Rack—It's "must" as soon as you've graduated beyond the trowel and hoe combination. Because tools aren't much use unless they're easily accessible. This can be home-made or "boughten" just so it holds your assortment properly.

A Shovel Worthy of the Name—with reinforcements from the tip of the point to the top of the handle. With shoulders that a lady can stand on when she's doing a turn of serious digging. With a handle made with the shape of the hand in mind and of a proper length for the digger.

A Wheelbarrow or Cart—to carry stuff from here to there. A positive essential if you're a real dirt gardener. There's a yard-size dump cart that's very snazzy with a slide-gate at the back end. But a rubber-tired wheelbarrow is good enough for me. If the budget is short, borrow that little red wagon from your son.

Clippers and Pruners—Don't economize here unless you must. The butcher knife won't do, neither will your best scissors. We find that our pair of pruning shears that fit our hand will do for most jobs that come our way. If you want something else—for that is, you want a sturdy clipper that has extensions to add so you can reach the high branches from the ground, not to mention the need for a smooth slick cutting edge.

A Digging Fork—The men are inclined to shove the fork, but take a tip from us, it's a wonderful substitute for a shovel. With it you can practically plow without turning much of a muscle. So select a good one—the right length, with a good grip and sharp with tempered prongs that won't snap or bend when you do a turn at prying up a belligerent root.

A Sprayer—Sad to say, your moth spray gun isn't really up to a proper job of outdoor spraying. So you might as well capitulate to a good gadget. If you go in for just sprays, get a duster with a dust container of glass and an agitator to break up lumps and a nozzle that sprays the powder evenly. There's also an attachment for a hose—you put a sort of capsule in it which is dissolved and distributed as the water filters through. For liquid sprays, you can have a small hand-size one or else if you take your bugs seriously, get a more professional affair with a tank that you carry around like a sapsucker on your back to feed the pump and nozzle.

Double Raises Invite Slams, Game-Forces

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Except for an opening three-suit bid which is based on a set-up suit requiring no trump support, a double raise is the quickest way to a partnership to agree upon the suit in which the final contract will likely be played. All double raises are necessarily game-forces and slam invitations.

How opening hand rebids to this double raise depends entirely on whether or not opening bidder believes there may be possibilities of going on to a slam.

WITH AVERAGE HAND.

With better than an average hand, unbalanced distribution, of fering ruffing possibilities, opening bidder usually shows a new suit. With a bare minimum, declarer must make one of two choices.

(1) Rebid his own suit, provided it is rebiddable.

(2) Bid three notrump with a balanced hand.

REBID PREFERENCES.

As for example, opening hand's one heart bid is raised immediately to three hearts and opener rebids:

(1) S—A 7 5 4; H—A Q J 7 5; D—10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2; C—10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2. Four hearts.

(2) S—A 7 5 4; H—A Q 7 5; D—K J; C—10 8 5. Three notrump.

(3) S—2; H—A Q 6 5 4; D—A K 5; C—Q J 8 5. Four clubs as a slam try.

(4) S—Q 4; H—A J 6 5; D—K J; C—A 9 8 5. Three notrump.

(5) S—6 5 4; H—K Q 8 7 5; D—A K 3; C—7 6. Four hearts.

OPENING IS MINOR.

If the suit opened is a minor, opening bidder is justified in naming any biddable four-card major, even shaded to A 10 x x x . . . K 10 x x . . . Q 10 x x . . .

With a major suit rebid, the preferred response is three notrump, unless the hand is unbalanced and game in the minor suit appears more probable.

To partner's double raise in clubs, opener rebids:

(1) S—K J 7; H—Q 2; D—10 9 8; C—A K J 6 3. Three notrump.

(2) S—K Q 7; H—2; D—10 9 8 3; C—A Q 8 7. Four clubs.

Woman's Quiz

Q. Is it necessary to use new rubber rings every year for glass jars in canning fruits and vegetables?

A. Yes, the rubbers must also be of good quality to withstand the temperature of processing. The simplest test is to double the ring together and press the fold with the fingers. The rubber should not crack under this treatment.

Q. Do fleas have wings?

A. No, their only means of locomotion is by jumping.

Q. A simple one is available for weed and poison ivy sprays.

Seeding Flats—Galvanized metal flats are an improvement on all scores over the wooden ones. Because they don't rot but mainly because you can water tender young plants from the bottom where it soaks up gently by capillary action.

Nozzle for Sprinkling—There's one that's especially made for soaking a bed or a plant without washing the soil or injuring tender shoots. And another for sub-soil or root irrigation and fertilizing, as well as a root sprayer (a perforated pipe arrangement.)

Salads with style! Those are the kind that lift you out of the summer doldrums. There are some salads that can be tossed; others that quite definitely are not tossable; these must be arranged. But on them you can use your imagination and artistic talents to your heart's content on combinations and arrangements.

The salad presented today is one of the "arranged" type, and though arranged, it has, as all truly artistic things have, an air of casualness about it.

In this salad elbow macaroni is used to give "body" and substantiality. Shell macaroni, or regular macaroni broken into small pieces may be used in salads. Cook macaroni in rapidly boiling salted water until tender, pour into a colander and allow cold water to run through it. Chill thoroughly and dress, together with desired accompaniments, with any salad dressing. The salad pictured has orange segments, with a few slices of avocado; sliced unpeeled apple and ripe olives alternating with the macaroni.

Another macaroni salad is the following:

Elbow Macaroni Salad.

1 package elbow macaroni.

1 cup diced celery.

1 cup shredded cabbage.

1 pimiento, chopped.

1 chopped green pepper.

1 teaspoon salt.

1-4 teaspoon paprika.

1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Mayonnaise.

Salad greens.

Cook macaroni as directed on package, drain and chill. Combine celery with cabbage, pimiento, green pepper and seasonings. Mix with the chilled macaroni and mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on crisp lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise. One cup diced chicken or tuna fish may replace the cabbage if desired.

Brides Should Be Careful To Rid Themselves of Worry

By Dr. William Brady.

Heaven knows a young woman and her parents or guardians have enough to worry about when the young woman accepts an offer of marriage these days, without dragging in any ugly morbid statistics. Yet in this vital matter ignorance is anything but bliss. It is far better for all concerned, the prospective bride, the prospective bridegroom, their families, friends and heirs, if any, to consider calmly and intelligently the serious facts on which are based laws (in many states) requiring at least syphilis tests of the applicants for marriage license. If the advice I gave in this column years ago were generally followed the intelligent portion of the population would have less to worry about. I advised that, instead of waiting until the time comes to obtain a marriage license, "a young man of upright character ought to obtain and offer his health certificate voluntarily as a preliminary to his engagement."

Even at that early day numerous readers, with what I thought and still think questionable chivalry, asked why the young woman should not submit the same evidence of her fitness to marry. From the elementary biological viewpoint, and in view of the moral standard which tacitly prevails, the question seems out of order.

Some of the legal requirements now being imposed on applicants for license to marry must be regarded as a step in the right direction but a timid step which should not deceive any well informed candidate for marriage.

It is all very fine to have a Wasserman test of the blood for syphilis, within thirty days of the date of marriage, and a negative report—that is, no evidence of syphilis found. But what assurance does that give one contracting marriage that the marriage will not have disastrous consequences from latent, smoldering or uncurable gonorrhea?

As parent or guardian of a young woman eligible for marriage, if I could have but one test of the man seeking to marry her, I'd choose the test for gonorrhea unhesitatingly.

Syphilis does not naturally cease to be communicable after it has run a course of two years or so, in most cases. Probably it becomes only feebly communicable as soon as the secondary stage (skin rash and mucous membrane patches) has passed.

Gonorrhea never ceases to be communicable, even though the chronic or intermittent manifestations of the disease continue for many years after the acute symptoms of the early weeks have passed and been forgotten.

Of course not all men are liars and not all men are inquisitive. But so many of all degrees or classes of young men do sow wild oats in their heyday that there is no alternative but to regard all men as possibly infected until or unless a test by a reliable physician fails to reveal evidence of gonorrheal infection as present.

Freedom, Last Thing Woman Wants

By Caroline Chatfield.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Among my souvenirs is an article you once wrote on the folly of a woman's divorcing her husband because she was disappointed in him. How well I know the truth of every word you wrote! I've been separated from my husband for almost two years and have been pretty miserable during the time. I have tried hard to become interested in somebody else but am still in love with him. It wasn't a case of "someone" else with him, it was a case of many, for he loves people and excitement and, with a wonderful personality, has the ability to get what he goes after.

Right now he thinks he wants me back in a home of our own with our 4-year-old daughter. I want that too but not under the old conditions. He says he respects me and will take care of me, but he isn't sure what love is and that he wouldn't be surprised if some day he ran into the woman that made him sure. That is not a very firm foundation for a remarriage? I believe he loves me but my fear is that after two years of being free and associating with younger women he has cultivated a taste for youth that will keep him from being happy with me. Is this likely? At least I have my freedom as things are which isn't to be snatched.

Answer: At least you have your freedom—yes—but freedom is the last thing the average woman wants in this world. She wants bondage to some man and never ever would she be free of the bondage she likes it. True when she hasn't the husband she talks herself into believing that freedom is more to be desired than anything else, but generally speaking that's whistling through the graveyard.

A woman can't get a money-back guarantee on a reasonably good man that he will be a model husband and surely she can't get any sort of surety on that. The best she can do is to decide to run out. Yet with all this it seems to me you two have an obligation to that little daughter which hasn't so far occurred to you—an obligation to give her a normal home. Up to the present moment you have considered your personal pleasure and happiness exclusively.

If it's advice you want, here it is: Remarry the man you love, he is your age and convince him that you are the woman he loves. It's to be hoped that he will be his age and assume the responsibilities of a husband and father instead of running around like a young buck looking for exciting experiences, which so far haven't satisfied him; or he wouldn't want you back.

CUE: Note the woman who uses her fingers rather than her hands to pick up an object. That graceful gesture is indicative of her whole character.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Letters unsuitable for publication will be returned stamped, self-addressed envelopes. All names are held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, in care of The Atlanta Constitution.

Learn to Draw Fashion Art At Home

Are you: Ambitious to learn to draw, eager for a career? Yet when you try to copy the fashion figures in magazines, newspapers, your drawings are all wrong.

Discouraging? No! You can learn to draw—in a home course—and your interest and effort show you have what it takes! Glamorous fashions aren't hard to draw when you know the rules governing proportions of face and figure. And how quickly you can learn them when you have simple charts, diagrams to guide you.

Simple 16 ways you master proportions, go on to learn the principles of light and shade, how to use wash, acquire a professional pen technique.

The trick of good pen work is to carry each line as long as possible—not to break it into two or three weak amateurish scratches.

Then one day as you sit at your drawing board, you compare your drawing to a professional sketch—and discover you have arrived! You're ready to show your work to department stores, advertising agencies, newspapers, magazines.

Our 40-page booklet, Home Course in Fashion Art, gives simple, step-by-step instructions in drawing. Explains composition, proportions, perspective, light and shade, wash, the rendering of furs and fabrics. Has 138 illustrations, diagrams, including charts based on the Da Vinci rules of figure proportion. A practical course—of professional scope.

MY DAY Bathing Suits Only Relief on Hot Days—

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—Yesterday was warm. When I telephoned my husband in Washington, even he, who never acknowledges the heat, had to say that Washington was not a pleasant spot and that he was off for Annapolis and the Potomac river, though returning to be in Washington for Secretary Swanson's funeral at the capitol.

The secretary had been ill for a long time, but in spite of his illness, he managed to do a great deal of work. All through his life he won for himself a great many friends. One newspaper writer casually mentioned to me yesterday that he would never forget his contacts with the secretary at the time of the peace conference in Paris, because of his never failing friendliness. I know that the President feels his loss as a friend as well as a cabinet officer, and both of us are deeply sympathetic with Mrs. Swanson, who has carried on so gallantly through her husband's illness.

We had quite a party yesterday. Twelve people were here for lunch and when we reach that number, it has to be a picnic. We sat out under the trees and fortunately there was a little breeze, but it died down later in the afternoon. Everyone spent most of the day in bathing suits, which is the only comfortable way to exist on such days.

Today it seems a little cooler and the sky is clouded. We have read the Sunday papers and feel pleasantly lazy. Only two or three people are coming to lunch, but this afternoon Jimmy is coming for a few hours from his way from the west coast to Washington, D. C.

The calm way in which air travel is being established between the United States and Europe is very thrilling, I think. There is a mention of it, of course, in the papers and today the photographs of the various editors and newspaper publishers who flew appeared, but very soon these trips will be mere routine, just as the air trips across the Pacific are. Only if there is some catastrophe will we hear any mention of this regular service, which has been established after years of careful study and experimentation.

So quickly do we forget what has gone before, that we will doubtless be surprised if anything goes wrong, forgetting how many ships were lost in the early days of sea voyages and figuring that the conquest of the air will be done even less dangerously.

It is always of interest to me to know what our American Red Cross can do to alleviate suffering throughout the world. Today there are so many innocent and defenseless people in different parts of the world who are suffering from the results of war, and not because of any action of their own, that I think, wherever we are able, we should give more support to the American Red Cross.

Beery's Adopted Daughter Wants Two Sisters—And How!

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 10.—The Cary Grant beach house is getting a new coat of paint outside and new furniture inside for the expected arrival of the new Mrs. Cary Grant. And housemate Randolph Scott says now that he will not remain to witness the couple's marital bliss. He will take a house for himself further along the ocean front.

Stokowski must be trying to revive the publicity on his romance with Garbo. He sent her a boxful of orchids—to the studio—where they would be seen and admired—by the right people.

Wallace Beery tells me he is on the level about taking Carol Ann to Europe this summer via the clipper. When he returns, he will go seriously into the business of adopting two more girls. Before deciding on the addition to his family, he was careful to obtain Carol Ann's permission. "I want you to have two more daughters," she told him seriously, "but they must both be my age (eight) and have birthdays on the same day!"

Overheard: D. W. Griffith telling W. S. Van Dyke—"I hate to date Norma Shearer, but she played 16 parts for me in 'Way Down East.'" (The 1920 version.) Buster Keaton is drawing $500 a week for his chore in "Hollywood Cavalcade." Sounds a lot—but not when you remember that at one time Buster was in the $10,000 weekly class. . . . Joan Fontaine is ill in bed with a high temperature—and unhappy over her broken engagement with Conrad Nagel. She has been made to realize finally that Conrad is several years too old for her. . . . Elder sister, Olivia De Havilland, made whoopee over the Fourth with Howard Hughes in a San Francisco house party. . . . Both the Mary Pickford and Constance Bennett cosmetics are made at the same manufacturing house—different formulas of course.

When David Niven was asked whether he would be going around with the leading lady—Loretta Young—of his new picture, "Eternally Yours," he replied "Of course. This is merely a revival of an old romance." . . . Errol Flynn is the least popular star in Australia, where the natives insist he was born in Hobart, Tasmania. Errol says "No," which is why they do not like him. . . . By the way, someone sent the Lane sisters three Tasmanian devils (an Australian dog-cat). . . . Whether Marlene Dietrich's French picture, "The Image," is made or not—and at the moment the chances are against it—Marlene will receive $150,000 for the job. This would be the second time that Marlene receives payment without making a picture. Paramount had to pay her $250,000 to wash up her contract which still had one picture to go.

That honeymoon of Clark Gable and Carole Lombard has dwindled to four days at Del Monte in the northern part of the state. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan is taking the baby to Ireland to show to his grandfather. She makes the trip minus husband John Farrow who has a long line of pictures to direct. . . . Paramount is offering the usual $50 to studio employees for another title to "Are Husbands Necessary?" Madeleine Carroll insists on a change before her departure for England and the London divorce court. . . . Vivien Leigh has persuaded Laurence Olivier to make a quick trip to Europe before he starts his "Rebecca" chore. She will travel on the same boat and with the same party.

Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck are considering a local stage offer for the fall. . . . Robert Cummings was running a school for aviators. The reason for the business is, to quote Cummings: "But they don't pay. And what can you do—sue your friends?" Ted Lupino and Louis Hayward bought a house in Brentwood during a recent lunch hour. They had another look at it after dinner, discovered it was too small and put it back on the market without a single night under its roof.

A lovely, becoming way to make the important "with-jacket" dress that you wear more than any other one thing during the summer. Design No. 1784-B is very versatile as well as very distinguished. You can wear the dress to afternoon parties and informal dinners, without the jacket. With the jacket, it's perfect for street, travel and business. Collarless, with darts on the shoulders, the jacket is straight and boxy, very slenderizing above the high-cut skirt. Pattern gives you a choice of long or three-quarter sleeves.

This type of ensemble is charming in sheers like georgette and chiffon, and also in cottons like linen, dotted Swiss or fine batiste. Trim it with lace or soft frills.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1784-B designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 (34) requires 4 3/8 yards of 39-inch fabric for the dress with nap; 2 1/3 yards for jacket with nap; and 3 yards for ensemble, without nap, and with 3-4 length sleeves, 6 7/8 yards.

Send for Barbara Bell's spring and summer pattern book! Make your own smart new frocks for street, daytime and afternoon, with these simple, carefully planned designs! It's chic, it's easy, it's economical, to sew your own. Each pattern chart to guide beginners.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Price of pattern book 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

INSTALLMENT V.

"Some day, she'll feel better!" the man said. "It's impossible to go on grieving. Nothing lasts for ever."

Elizabeth nodded. "I know." Her voice was grateful.

"You sound as if you are sorry about it."

"I am. At least, I don't like things to change. I don't mean that I want her always to be unhappy, but it seems dreadful ever to forget people, and some day not to love them any more," she explained haltingly.

"That's human nature," the man said. "Nothing is meant to last forever." He glanced down at the little bunch of primroses in his hand. "Even the flowers die," he added. "And the leaves tumble off the trees."

"I know," she answered, "but I'm sad all the same."

"You funny child," he said.

She flushed at that and turned her face away.

The rain was falling less heavily now and there was a watery gleam of sunshine through the trees.

"Are you going back to London this afternoon?" the man asked.

"Yes, it takes about two hours by bus."

"I hope they won't mind being taken to London," she said.

"Don't you like London?" he asked.

Elizabeth hesitated.

"I like the country better," she admitted.

He half-shrugged his broad shoulders.

"It's all right when the weather's good, but on foggy November afternoons—"

"I know," she said, and again she thought of Narrow Lane Hall, and the long, grey autumn afternoons when they used to be shut in by mists and silence. "I used to live in the country when I was small," she told him.

The man smiled. "You're not very big now," he said, but when she did not answer, he stepped outside the hut and looked up at the sky. "It's stopped raining," he told her.

But the grass and the undergrowth were sopping wet as they retraced their steps to the stile, and the man, said as if he was speaking to a child, "You'll have to change directly you get in or you'll catch cold."

Elizabeth laughed.

"I don't catch cold very easily," she told him. "And I've only been ill once in my life—really ill, and that's a long time ago."

He offered his hand to help her over the stile and Elizabeth looked back at the wet wood and the yellow carpet at the foot of the trees.

"Good-bye, primroses," she said. "But you can come again," the man reminded her.

She raised her eyes to his face and shook her head, pointing to the "Tresspassers will be prosecuted" sign which hung above their heads.

"What about that?" she asked. "The man thrust a hand into his jacket pocket."

"Look here, I'll give you a card, and if one of the keepers or anybody catches you, just show it to them and it will be all right. Wait a minute." He found a pencil and scribbled a few words above his printed name. "There!" he said, and put it into her hand.

She read the name aloud—"Kim Lawless."

Lawless" and the words he had penciled above it, "A permit to pick primroses."

She laughed and put the card away in the pocket of her woolly coat. "Thank you so much," she said, and would have left him but he explained.

"I'll walk with you to the corner. I know where the bus passes."

Elizabeth looked at him a little shyly as they went down the road together.

Tall—she liked tall men. Pip had been tall, broad-shouldered, with darkish brown hair, brown eyes. She liked his tweed jacket, too, and she liked his name. "Kim Lawless." It was the kind of name you would find in a book of adventures.

He waited with her till the bus came swinging along the road on its way back to London.

"Here we are," he said, and then, "I'm quite sorry you're going," he added boyishly.

"I'm sorry, too," Elizabeth answered.

She waved to him as the bus started away and he waved back, and then a bend in the wood hid him from view.

"It was fun meeting him," Elizabeth told herself, and she slipped a hand into her coat pocket to make sure the card was still there.

Kim Lawless. She spoke the name in her thoughts and somehow it seemed quite familiar and as if she had heard it often and knew it well.

And then she realized that this was the first time she had ever really been in a man's company alone, and then came a quick memory of something her mother had said, when they had been speaking of Penelope's engagement.

"There's plenty of time, and you'll meet lots of men when you are older."

"I don't want to meet lots of men," Elizabeth's thoughts ran on, "but I should like to meet Kim again." It did not seem at all strange to think of him only by his Christian name. But she forgot him as soon as she turned into the little road where she lived, and the clouds which a few hours in the country always dispersed gathered around her once more.

And today there was a car outside the house—a grand-looking car with a chauffeur standing beside it. Elizabeth's heart missed a beat and her steps grew hurried as she thought of that other afternoon—nearly a year ago now—when she found strange people in the hall and had been told that Pip had met with an accident.

Had something else tragic happened today?

But when she entered the little drawing-room which was so seldom used since Pip died, her mother was there and a man whom Elizabeth did not know, and a tall, smartly-dressed girl, who looked at her critically for a moment before she laughed and said, "Well, you haven't altered much!"

"Nelpo!" Elizabeth said breathlessly.

It was Stella who presently told the two girls to go away for a little because she wished to talk to the strange man alone, so Elizabeth took Penelope up to her room.

She felt a little shy but then she and Penelope had never been very friendly, and it was the elder girl who broke the silence to say, "Do you know why we're here?"

No, I suppose you don't. Perhaps you didn't even know that father died a fortnight ago?"

Elizabeth paled a little.

"No, I didn't know."

"Your mother knew," Penelope told her, and she laughed. "She's changed, hasn't she? She looks quite old and faded."

"It's only since Pip died," Elizabeth said defensively. "She's never got over his death. I don't think she ever will."

"How absurd," the elder girl said a little contemptuously. "I don't believe in fretting about anything or anybody. You only make yourself look miserable and nobody cares."

But there was a hard, unhappy ring in her voice and as Elizabeth did not speak, she went on, "Well, if you didn't know that father was dead, you can't know why we're here, so I may as well tell you. It's about the will."

She sat down on the side of Elizabeth's bed.

"He left a lot of money, you know," she said, "and apparently you and I get half if you agree to certain conditions."

"I get half?" Elizabeth said incredulously.

Penelope nodded.

"Yes, but you won't like the conditions—or at least I don't imagine that you will."

"What are they?"

"That you leave your mother and come back to live with me and Aunt Thornley."

"I suppose," Penelope continued, "you don't remember Aunt Thornley, do you? She was my mother's sister and she has been keeping house for us since your mother ran away. I don't quite know what relation she is to you—it's all so involved with so many step-people in the family—but Mr. Ruff (he's the man downstairs) knows all about it and he's trying to explain to your mother—only she's so stupid—she doesn't seem to take anything in. Anyway, those are the conditions."
